Chambers Asks Exon To Veto Budget Bill

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer
Casting aside past hostilities, Sen. Ernest Chambers of Omaha drove to Lincoln Friday to personally urge Gov. J. James Exon to veto the operational budget bill.

In its place, Chambers suggested that the governor introduce a new budget bill including the $366,000 in additions which Exon, in vain, had requested as amendments to his original proposal.

If necessary, Chambers told Exon, he would introduce the bill for the governor.

Chambers said he had the impression that Exon "wouldn't hesitate to veto" the budget measure, LB259, "if he were certain he could get a new bill enacted with the 33 votes."

necessary to make the budget effective in time for the July 1 beginning of the new fiscal year.

Question
But, Chambers said, Exon was concerned that he could not gather the 33 votes. That, in turn, would create a fiscal crisis for the state.

Chambers said he believes a new bill could garner the 33 required votes because the Legislature would be reluctant to create a budgetary crisis.

In an interview with newsmen on the north steps of the Statehouse following his meeting with Exon, Chambers said he believes the budget bill is inadequate and he would attempt to amend a new bill on the floor "to get additional money where it is needed."

LB259 is "a bastard bill," which reflects neither the governor's budgetary wishes nor those of the Legislature, Chambers said.

"The Legislature carried a childish thing too far" in enacting the bill without discussion, without considering Appropriations Committee amendments and without including Exon's own additions, he said.

"A mistake was made, and I think some senators would welcome the opportunity to correct it with a new budget bill."

'Out Of Spite'
The Legislature, Chambers said, acted out of spite toward Exon.

"It saw this as a chance to make the governor eat some words (holding out the promise of tax reductions if his budget proposals were accepted) and hurt him in an election year," Chambers said.

"Some senators said they were tired of this guy talking down to us, insulting us. So they said they were going to get him."

But, Chambers said, "he's too smart for them, too cunning."

The Legislature's political pursuit of Exon is "like the fox being hunted by a dumb dog," he said.

Chambers said he "had to swallow a degree of my pride" and put aside past animosity toward Exon when he telephoned the governor's office to arrange Friday's discussion.

"I wanted to do what I thought was in the best interests of the people of the state," he said.

Chambers said there was "no hostility between us at any time" during his discussion with Exon.

Grocery Prices Rise At Record High Rate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices in March increased at the highest rate in 22 years, driven up by a record 3.2 per cent jump in grocery prices, the government said Friday.

President Nixon's economic advisers, although dismayed by the "unwelcome advance in prices over-all," said the Labor Department's report contained "the first encouraging signs" to indicate price relief in the coming months.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the rise in supermarket prices following record increases of 2.3 per cent in February and 2.5 per cent in January, was the largest since it began tabulating grocery prices in 1952.

The continued surge in food prices accounted for about two-thirds of the overall jump in the cost of living, which rose 0.9 in March. This was the sharpest increase recorded since February 1951 when it went up 1.2 per cent at the height of the Korean war inflation.

On a seasonally adjusted basis, the March increase in the cost of living was 0.8 per cent, matching February's record 22-year high.

Prices for all commodities rose 1.3 per cent, biggest gain since 1956. With food left out, the jump in commodities prices was 0.5 per cent.

Charges for rent and other services were up 0.3 per cent, a figure slightly less than that recorded in February.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said the report, reflecting the first three months under the administration's voluntary Phase 3 wage-price controls, is proof positive of the complete failure of Nixon's economic policies.

"These latest record-breaking figures mean that the American consumer, housewife and workers are going to pay, pay and keep on paying for these failures," said Meany who again warned that unions will ignore the administration's 5.5 per cent wage increase guidelines at the bargaining table this year.

Congressional Democrats also reacted sharply to the report which followed figures from the Commerce Department on Thursday which also showed inflation running far above the administration's goals.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., called Phase 3 controls "a license to increase prices." Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the House Banking Committee blamed Republicans and big business lobbies for the high prices and Congress' failure to enact tighter controls.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., vice chairman of the Joint Economic Committee, said the worst is yet to come—when wholesale price increases for industrial goods and nonfood items begin showing up in retail stores.

But Treasury Secretary George Shultz, and Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, saw a bright note in the March statistics. They said the moderate increases in non-food areas offered encouragement.

Stein noted that the report did not reflect the effects of the ceiling on meat prices imposed by Nixon on March 28. He said this would begin showing up in the coming months and predicted food prices will begin tapering off.

There is also evidence, Stein said, "that prices received by farmers have declined in the past month and that retail food prices have been rising less rapidly than in the first three months of the year."

According to the Labor Department, the cost of living rose at a seasonally adjusted rate of 8.8 per cent in the first quarter of the year, compared to an advance of only 3.2 per cent in the final three months of 1972.

This was because of the big jump in food prices which rose at an annually adjusted annual rate of 29.8 per cent in the first quarter—the largest increase for any three-month period since 1951.

But Did Hear Idea Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell testified for three hours before the Watergate grand jury Friday and told newsmen afterward: "I never approved any bugging plans."

Mitchell said, however, he had heard of plans to conduct wiretapping in the 1972 presidential campaign and gave them "absolute, final disapproval."

Mitchell's statement appeared to contradict a sworn statement he made last fall, when he denied ever having heard about any plans for any sort of surveillance over Democratic party headquarters.

Mitchell said Friday he never handled any payoff money to buy silence from defendants in the Watergate conspiracy and hasn't seen any of them or their lawyers since the break-in at Democratic party headquarters last June 17.

Mitchell wouldn't tell newsmen the names of those who proposed the bugging plans he had disapproved. But his lawyer confirmed as "substantially accurate" a news account saying Mitchell privately accused Jeb S. Magruder and G. Gordon Liddy, two former associates at the Nixon campaign.

Magruder has been quoted as telling federal prosecutors that Mitchell and presidential counsel John W. Dean III approved and helped plan bugging operations and arranged for payoffs to defendants. It isn't clear if Magruder accused Mitchell either of actually handling money or of making contact with defendants or their lawyers.

One of the convicted defendants, James W. McCord Jr., sued the Nixon campaign Thursday for $1.5 million in damages, claiming he was led to believe his actions were legal and were approved by "the highest officials" of the campaign, including Maurice Stans, Hugh W. Sloan Jr., and Magruder.

Mitchell testified for about three hours. "I testified fully, freely and openly," he said afterward.

Regarding wiretapping, he reiterated: "I've heard discussions of such things. They've always been cut off at all times, and I'd like to know who kept bringing them back up."

Mitchell's lawyer, William G. Hundley, predicted the former chief U.S. law enforcement officers would be absolved.

"We feel that all of the facts, when evaluated in the light of existing law, will soon convince everyone there was no criminal violation," Hundley said.

At the time of the wiretapping, Mitchell was chairman of the President's re-election campaign.

Last fall Mitchell gave a sworn statement in a civil Watergate lawsuit denying that he had heard any discussions about spying on Democratic headquarters.

He was asked, "Was there any discussion at which you were present or about which you heard when you were campaign director concerning having any form of surveillance on the Democratic National Committee headquarters?"

He replied, "No, I can't imagine a less productive activity than that."

In other Watergate developments Friday:

—President Nixon told officials at a Cabinet meeting he wants everyone in government "to co-operate fully" in the Watergate investigation, the White House said. Nixon then flew with his family to Florida for the Easter weekend.

—Nixon's personal lawyer, Herbert W. Kalmbach of California, appeared for a second straight day in the offices of federal Watergate prosecutors. Kalmbach declined to explain the purpose of his visits or to say if he had been called to testify before the grand jury. FBI reports made public in the Senate say Kalmbach paid between $30,000 and $40,000 to California lawyer Donald Segretti, who has been accused in news accounts of trying to recruit political saboteurs for the Nixon campaign.

Easter Day Temperatures May Be Cool

Although there's no mention of moisture in the weather forecast for Easter Day in Nebraska, temperatures are likely to be on the cool side.

Highs in the 40s are expected in the northwest, while the mercury will climb only into the 50s in the southeast, according to the National Weather Service.

In the extreme southeast, a chance of thundershowers will exist Saturday. And the possibility of light snow is forecast for the northwest Saturday night.

Report Hits 'Outbidding'

Trooper Killed East Of Lexington

Lexington — A Nebraska state patrolman was shot and killed late Friday afternoon when he stopped a man and woman on suspicion of drunk driving on Interstate 80 about one mile east of here, the patrol reported.

The patrolman was identified as George W. Amos Jr., 28, of Lexington. He is survived by his wife and two children.

The patrol said a scuffle ensued about 5:10 p.m. after Amos had stopped the pair Amos called for assistance, the patrol reported, and when another patrolman arrived, Amos was found shot.

A short time later the two suspects were apprehended north of Gothenburg, the patrol said.

Dawson County Sheriff John

Rohnert said he believed the two were from out of state. They were being held in the county jail in Lexington.

According to United Press International, Amos had been shot in the face and was slumped behind the wheel of his car when help arrived.

The wire service said the two suspects were apprehended following a high speed chase after the killing.

UPI said the car driven by the suspects, a 29-year-old man and a 24-year-old woman was finally stopped after it turned into a rural road and then into a field, where a patrol car rammed it to get it to stop.

UPI quoted the patrol as saying Amos' service weapon was found on the two.

Ralls To Be Accused Of Homicide In Stabbing

By GORDON WINTERS
Star Staff Writer

Homicide charges will be filed Tuesday against Thomas Ralls Jr., 24, of Lincoln, in connection with the fatal stabbing of an inmate Friday morning at the Nebraska Penal Complex, according to Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas.

County offices will be closed Monday in observance of Arbor Day.

Ralls, who was being held at the Lincoln City Jail, had been at the complex only since Thursday evening after he was sentenced to 10 to 15 years for the robbery of the Edgar Lacey family in Lincoln on March 1.

The victim of the stabbing was identified as Irvin Leon Cooper, 37, of Omaha.

According to Nebraska Penal Complex Warden Charles Wolff Jr., Cooper was stabbed shortly before 7 a.m. in the serving area of the prison cafeteria.

There were apparently no witnesses to the stabbing. However, Wolff said that guards saw an inmate chasing Cooper.

Wolff said Cooper was stabbed at least once in the chest. After Cooper was stabbed, Wolff said, Cooper ran to the prison infirmary in the same building, leaving a trail of blood.

From the infirmary Cooper was taken to St. Elizabeth Community Health Center, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Knife Found
Wolff said a homemade, stainless steel knife about eight inches long was found in the possession of an inmate during a shakedown following the incident.

That inmate is being held at the penal complex during an investigation by the State Patrol.

Cooper had been in the penal complex since May, 1966 serving a term of 10 years for robbery in Douglas County.

He was also scheduled to serve five years for assaulting a corrections officer with a knife in July 1972.

Youth-in-Action Early 'Invasion' Of Classroom Gives Students Career Insights

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

For prospective teachers of young pupils, there's no better experience than jumping into a classroom) with both feet and seeing where you land.

At least that's the conclusion of some of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln students who spent an afternoon or two at Clare McPhee Elementary School earlier this week.

There they tried to keep track of a room full of students and keep an eye on as many paint brushes, bottles of paint, scissors, paper, paste ribbon and yarn as the youngsters could use for art projects.

"Experience is the most valuable" teacher, said Lisa Hayes, a UNL junior from Lincoln.

Enjoy Teaching
"I've learned that I enjoy teaching more than I ever thought I would," she said.

But, on the other hand, she added, the early classroom experience sometimes tells the university student that teaching was the wrong career choice.

"I have talked to those who decided 'no way,'" she said.

Lisa, Susan Hawkins of Omaha and Carolyn Mueller of Crofton provided a three-member team this week which "invaded" a Clare McPhee third-grade room for two afternoons.

Invasion
The invasion was an artistic one, however, designed to help the three university students learn how to plan and carry out an art study unit and to give them first-hand classroom experience.

While the three young women were working with the third-graders, other UNL students were in various other classrooms working at similar projects.

A total of some 85 university students participated in the art teaching project as a part of an elementary art methods class in the UNL teachers college.

Similar projects in other methods courses put prospective teachers into classrooms long before they are expected to become full-fledged student teachers.

Plan Units

In each case, the UNL students plan the study unit, spelling out objectives, planning materials to be used, organizing lesson plans.

"To my mind this is the only way to learn," said Susan, who also teaches reading three days a week and has taught math in another project.

"It's a good idea" to try teaching a couple of days in every subject area before student teaching, said Lisa as McPhee pupils throughout the room decorated bottles as papier-mache characters.

"Till you get into the classroom, you really don't understand" what teaching is like, said Susan.

Gold Is Expected
To Continue Rise

LONDON (AP) — Gold is making a comeback as one of the most spectacularly successful investments in the world, and Americans may soon get in on the action.

The London gold price rose 60 per cent in 1972, the biggest increase for a single year since 1931. So far in 1973 the record has been even better.

Buyers could have picked up gold here in January at $65 a fine ounce. By late February, the metal was selling at an all-time high of $95 an ounce, an increase of nearly 50 per cent in a month.

The gold price, still around $90, is widely expected to hit $100 an ounce before too long, with or without the Americans. It could be with.

In early April, the U. S. Senate approved an amendment that would allow American citizens to buy and hold gold for the first time since 1934. The measure still needs approval of the House of Representatives and President Nixon. But should it go through, American buying power would likely send the gold price up even higher.

As with any investment, there are risks in gold. What goes up can come down, as fast or faster. But most gold market experts think the odds heavily favor higher prices for the metal in the short term.

Two factors get most credit for driving up the gold price so sharply:

— With each devaluation of a key currency, like the British pound or the U. S. dollar, confidence in paper money has declined. Buyers switched their funds into gold as a hedge against continuing monetary uncertainty.

— Demand for gold as a commodity — from hoarders, industrial users, dentists and jewelers for example — has outpaced newly mined supply. And the shortage helped drive up prices.

Of the two factors, the monetary side is probably more important. Changes there, in the long run, are more likely to affect the gold price. They already have.

In Cambodian War

PHNOM PENH (AP) — The war in Cambodia has become an exclusive fight between native guerrillas and government forces, with the North Vietnamese in the background keeping guard over supply trails into South Vietnam, a U. S. Embassy official said Friday.

In fact, the informant added, North Vietnamese infiltration into Cambodia seems on the decline and there is no "verifiable, documented evidence" that the Hanoi army regulars or the Viet Cong guerrillas of South Vietnam are now leading the native rebels into battle against the forces of President Lon Nol's government.

"Vietnamese troops have not been a significant fighting force (in Cambodia) since the Vietnam peace agreement," said the official, who declined to be identified. (A State Department spokesman in Washington said the United States has told North Vietnam that if it "damps down the war in Cambodia" and withdraws its troops there will be a "prompt and positive response on our part.") The spokesman, Charles W. Bray, stressed that the United States is appealing to the North Vietnamese to withdraw their military support of the Cambodian rebels.)

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in Cambodia are believed to number around 25,000 men. The informant said their role lately has been limited to logistics concerning operations across the border in South Vietnam.

Cambodian insurgents are believed to number about 40,000 and control about two-thirds of this Indochinese nation's countryside. The government has about 200,000 men under arms.

Judge Drops Contempt Counts
Against UFW Grape Workers

COACHELLA, Calif. (AP) — A Superior Court judge Friday dropped contempt of court charges against 311 United Farm Workers pickets who were arrested for violating his orders restricting picketing in the strike against grape growers.

Judge Fred R. Metheny acted after sheriff's deputies made more mass arrests of picketers as a jurisdictional dispute heated between Cesar Chavez' United Farm Workers Union and the Teamsters Union.

Metheny ordered the charges purged on motion of UFW attorney Jerome Cohen, who argued that the court orders were unconstitutional because UFW representatives were not present at hearings at which growers asked temporary injunctions limiting pickets' activities.

The judge also modified his earlier orders so that strikers can picket in any numbers as long as they remain peaceful and do not go within 60 feet of struck growers' properties.

Cohen complained that workers wanting to leave the fields were being restrained by Teamsters and employees of the growers.

Metheny issued an order saying that "workers shall be protected when they attempt to leave the fields and no person shall prevent leaving the fields by using guns, knives, clubs, baseball bats, grape stakes or any other dangerous instruments."

Chavez has said the picketing will continue no matter how many arrests are made.

United Farm Workers pickets arrested in the dusty vineyards were hustled into buses and hauled to the county jail here, where most were released on bail.

Most arrests were for violating court orders prohibiting mass picketing and trespassing.

The picketing began Monday after most of the Coachella Valley growers — who produce 80 per cent of the nation's table grape crop from May to July — announced they were signing contracts with the Teamsters Union rather than renewing UFW contracts. Arrests have increased steadily.

"There has been no physical violence today, but there have been verbal confrontations between pickets and working Teamsters members," said sheriff's Lt. John Jones.

"Workers are continuing to work in the fields despite the picketing, and Teamsters organizers are working along with them," Jones said.

Deputies move in when pickets get closer than 60 feet to property being picketed and when they march into the fields to exhort workers to leave, Jones said. Many growers have obtained court orders limiting the number of pickets in one location, specifying what distance pickets must stay from property, and prohibiting entrance onto growers' property.

Oil-Rich Persian Gulf Area Seen As Strategic Pivot

By DREW MIDDLETON
Washington — Military planners expect that the strategic interests of the United States and global strategy in general will pivot on the Persian Gulf late in this decade as a result of competition for the area's oil.

President Nixon's cursory references to U.S. security interests in his message to Congress on energy needs surprised planners who have lived with the problem of increasing American dependence on distant oil reserves. The President said that if the United States was to maintain "the security of our resources, it is essential that we strike the right balance" in priorities.

Military sources who did not wish to be identified noted that Nixon had not mentioned that more than half of the world's proven oil reserves were in Middle Eastern countries, most of whose governments are either hostile to the United States because of its support of Israel or, in the case of Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, highly critical of that support.

One source commented that the President had not mentioned the word "Arab" during his message but "that's the problem."

stituting fees for quotas on imports, would be a lasting contribution to national security. "This may be true at the moment," a source said, "but it's a changing world, and no area is changing faster than the Middle East."

By the late 1970's, military opinion holds, the United States, Western Europe and Japan will be increasingly dependent on Persian Gulf oil as energy demands rise and other supplies dwindle.

There are fears here and in European capitals that the Soviet Union is striving to increase its influence in the oil-producing states, using U.S. support for Israel as leverage. One object would be to establish some measure of control over the oil supplies for North America and Western Europe. Another, less immediately important, would be insurance against depletion of domestic Soviet supplies.

The Royal Dutch Shell group estimates that 62% of the world's proven reserves are in the Middle East, primarily in the Persian Gulf area. Of the 367 billion barrels estimated to lie in the Middle East, Iran's share is put at 55 billion, Kuwait's at 78 billion and Saudi Arabia's at 160 billion.

The strategic implications of the situation and of efforts to exploit new sources of oil affect the world's great industrial areas.

China and the United States are considering the effect of new supplies of Siberian oil on the freedom of maneuver of the Soviet Union's Pacific fleet and Far Eastern army. The Russians, while exploiting supposedly vast resources in Siberia, are prospecting in the Middle East and strengthening relations with governments there. Japan, Western Europe and the United States, facing greater dependence on Persian Gulf oil, are acutely aware of the vulnerability of sea routes in time of war or crisis.

"Critical Dependence" Capt. William F. Cass, a retired Coast Guard officer now at the Department of Transportation as an oil expert, predicted recently that "if events are allowed to follow a natural course, the United States will almost certainly face an 8-to-10-year period beginning in 1975-77 of critical dependence on Middle East oil."

James F. Akins, formerly director of the Office of Fuels and Energy in the State Department and now on duty at the White House, estimates that "by 1980 the United States could be importing as much as eight million barrels a day from the Middle East; some oil companies believe it will be close to 11 million."

In the view of the oil companies, Western diplomats and the planners for military machines that live on oil, the prime political objective is to "keep the Arabs sweet."

Akins noted in the quarterly Foreign Affairs that "even King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, who has said repeatedly that he wishes to be a friend of the United States and who believes communism is a mortal danger to the Arabs, insists to every visitor that U.S. policy in the Middle East, which he characterizes as pro-Israel, will ultimately drive all Arabs into the communist camp and that this policy will bring disaster on all America's remaining Arab friends."

"Others in the Middle East," Akins continued, "frame their predictions in a different but almost equally ominous vein, in terms of a growth of radical anti-Americanism manifesting itself in behavior that may at times be irrational."

Boycoits Feared Such Arab "irrationality," diplomats fear, would take the form of boycotting sales to the United States for political reasons.

Well-placed sources in Washington and London and at North Atlantic Treaty Organization headquarters in Brussels confirm the estimates. They emphasize the importance of good relations between NATO and oil-producing Arab states in the second half of this decade. Henry A. Kissinger, President Nixon's national security adviser, has begun a review of U.S. policy in the area, taking into account the contradiction between American military and political support for Israel and the need for better relations with an Arab world hostile to Israel.

Since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war NATO's principal European members, Britain, France and West Germany, have moved quietly to improve relations with the Arab states. Their diplomats say they would strongly support a new United States initiative for a Middle Eastern settlement because it would reduce Arab hostility toward the Americans.

The Europeans in the alliance find themselves torn between loyalty to the United States, their nuclear protector, and concern over oil supplies. Moreover, they are acutely anxious about any American policy moves that would create special relationships between the United States and major producing states like Saudi Arabia. As an American oil expert put it, "They want us to smooth Arab feathers, but not to the extent that we limit their access to Middle East oil."

U.S. Demonstrators Detained In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet authorities detained seven American tourists several hours Friday for demonstrating outside a government passport office to protest the "plight of Soviet Jews."

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the Soviet Foreign Ministry confirmed the detentions. The later release was reported by an embassy consular officer who said he received a telephone call from a young man saying he was one of the seven and they all had been freed at an undisclosed location.

The spokesman added that the youths were told they could continue their tour and leave as scheduled on Sunday for the United States.

The demonstrators, described by Russian witnesses as five men and two women, were believed to be some of the 2,000 American students visiting Moscow on Easter vacations.

A spokesman for the Conscience Committee for Soviet Jewry said in New York that a member of the group detained had telephoned him from Moscow and identified the seven as Joseph Klein, 19; Alan Bindiger, 18; Rivka Fogel, 17; Jules Levanthal, 19; Philip Kornbluth, 27; Philip Pulver, 18; and Robin Schwartz, 18, all of New York City.

The Soviet decision to release the demonstrators contrasted with previous official reactions to similar protests by foreigners in Moscow. The action appeared to be an attempt to minimize publicity over the demonstration and to avoid harming Soviet-American relations.

Surrounded by a number of Soviet Jews awaiting exit visas for Israel, the protestors sang "Let My People Go" and civil rights songs. They were ejected from the building by government officials, the witnesses said.

They added that the Americans, some wearing U.S. flag badges, then sat on the sidewalk and continued singing and shouting slogans until a squad of about 15 uniformed police hauled them away to an unknown destination.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

When it comes to politics, you have had a full and fascinating week of it in the Legislature and the governor has clearly come out the winner. The trouble is that there are good politics and bad politics and the stuff of this past week has been on the bad side.

The governor has won the political skirmish and the people of Nebraska and government in general have been the losers. There is hardly any way now for the Legislature to extricate itself from the morass into which it has fallen.

Governor J. James Exon has been given the lion's share of the 1973-74 budget he asked for, in the form of a dare by the Legislature to make the tax cuts promised by the governor. Make no mistake about it — the tax cuts will be made and state government will continue to operate.

Very little will happen by way of public operations that will make citizens mad at the governor for his failure to budget enough money. On the other hand, all citizens will delight in a substantial tax cut. It is a dream of all dreams for an incumbent governor and the heavily Republican majority in the Legislature has handed it to Democrat Exon on a silver platter.

Die-hard partisans will try to make it look otherwise but they won't stand a chance. All the voters will know and understand is that taxes are being cut. They will never come to appreciate the needs of state government that will go unfulfilled as a consequence of such tax cut.

At this point in time, the extent of tax cuts is unknown. It could be one-third of the income tax and 20% in the sales tax or even greater than this, depending upon what the state senators ultimately do in the areas of capital construction and use of federal revenue-sharing funds.

Without using any revenue-sharing funds and without any capital construction appropriation, taxes could be reduced by some $28 million to $30 million more than shown in the above figures. That would mean even more substantial reductions in the sales and income taxes.

Certainly, in approving the original Exon budget line for line, the Legislature acted irresponsibly. The Legislature has a clear and unmistakable responsibility to analyze the governor's budget recommendations and make whatever changes in them it feels are justified.

It very clearly refused to do this and sought to stick the governor with an operational budget it felt he could not live with. The big mistake in this is that the governor feels he can live with that budget, even without the $300,000-plus additions he proposed for his original package.

The governor can be faulted in several areas, although they are all of doubtful political impact. For one, the governor antagonized the Legislature with his claims of fiscal responsibility and insinuations of legislative fiscal frivolity.

The voters may not care about that but it does not represent proper gubernatorial leadership. Secondly, the governor's position has tended to force and encourage the senators to take the governor's directions verbatim, without exercise of their constitutional responsibility.

Thus, he shares some in their irresponsibility. Finally, his budget does not meet state needs, even though it will keep the state in existence. Thus, the governor has it made politically, the Legislature has a black eye and the people are left holding a bagful of hot air they think is filled with goodies.

Catalytic Converter Subject Of Debate

NEW YORK — Now that Detroit has wangled another year of grace before it has to clean up all its engines, let's talk about the little gadget everybody's counting on to do the job — the catalytic converter.

Will it, or won't it? Do the job, that is. As of now, the situation is murkier than the smog it's supposed to wipe out.

The folks who make automobiles say maybe it will, eventually. The more daring ones will even squeeze out a "probably." But, as they keep telling the Environmental Protection Agency, they need more time to test it.

You talk to people in the catalyst business and you can't help but wonder what the fuss is all about. To hear them tell it, their products are tested, perfected and rarin' to get on with the job of reducing automotive exhausts to harmless soda-pop bubbles right now.

Not necessarily so, says our man in Detroit. That's what all catalyst manufacturers say and the reason they say it is they want to sell more catalysts.

Nonsense, says our man in catalysts. His company has been making automotive converters for 14 years and it's no "basement" project. As for "data," he's got test results that would convince anybody who really wanted to be convinced.

One catalyst manufacturer even took out ads in half a dozen newspapers coast to coast to "set the record straight on some of the fictions" floating out of Detroit.

Take that business about catalysts being too fragile to stand up under the federally required 50,000 miles. All humbug, according to the ad.

"New, thermally stabilized catalysts have been developed that can maintain emissions with 1975 federal standards for 50,000 miles in spite of periods of overtemperature and poisoning."

Detroit insists the only efficient catalysts are made from rare metals like platinum and palladium, which they would have to buy from Russia or South Africa.

"If we buy from Russia," our automobile man says, "we'd have the right-wingers picketing us. If we trade with South Africa, it would be the left-wingers. Haven't we got enough trouble?"

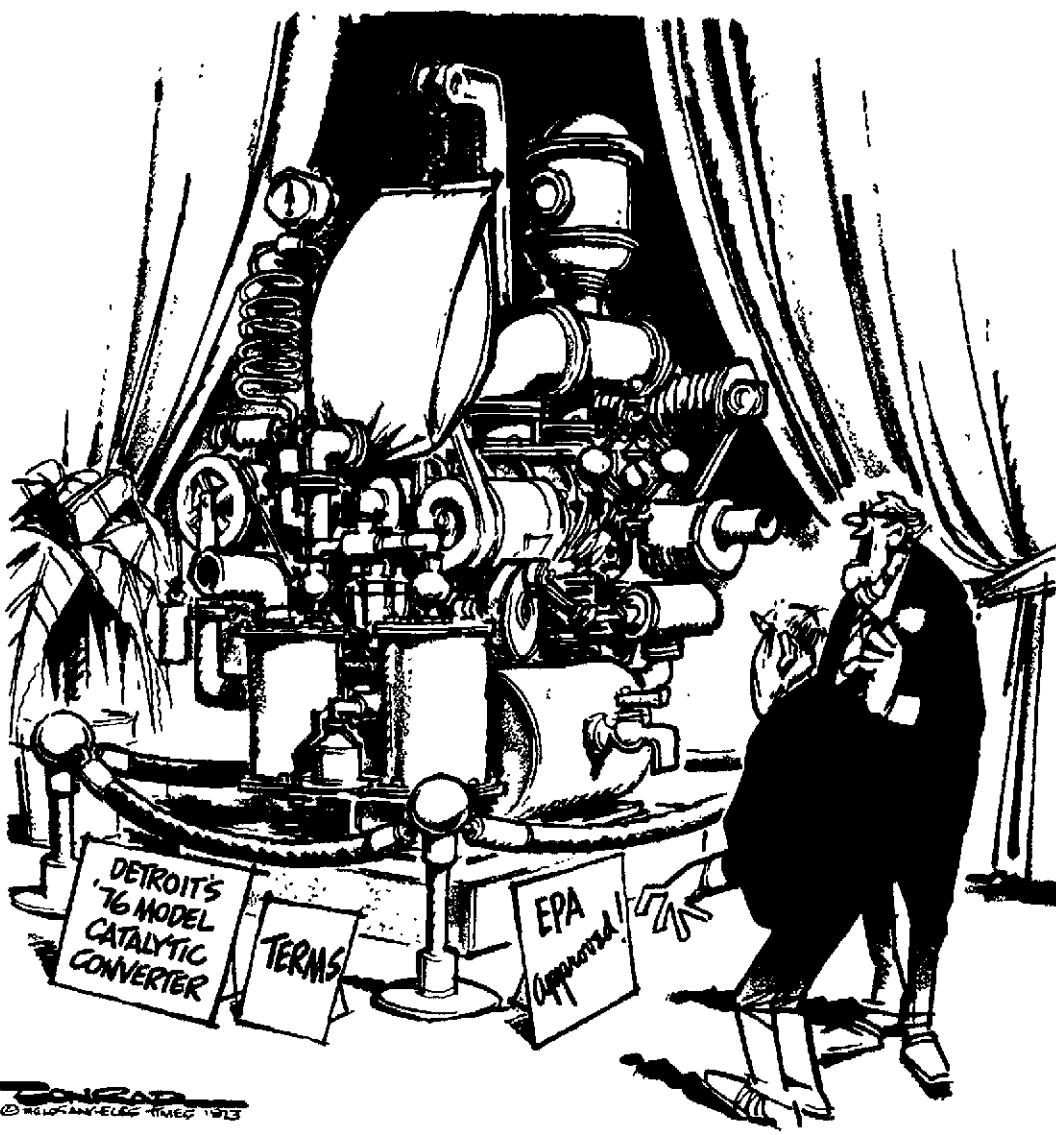

Just another smoke screen, says our catalyst man. His company can make a converter with only 18,100 of an ounce of noble metal that will meet all government standards, provided auto makers are allowed to average emissions on production-line and in-use testing.

It's even possible, he added, to make a catalyst out of a cheaper base metal that will keep the EPA happy, but it has to be operated at higher temperatures than those required by noble metals. With the proper economic incentive, he says, any engineer could overcome that little technical problem.

What it probably boils down to is that the automobile people are dragging their heels to save money — and the catalyst folks are pushing their product to make some. And until they get together on this, all we can do is wait. And cough a lot.

'The Car, Of Course, Is Extra!'

Attack On Corruption

This flat rock we call politics, as columnist William Safire terms it, has been flipped over and there are a lot more creepy things than only the Watergate bug crawling around underneath. But, as Safire notes, in exposing the corruption we are setting higher standards for politics and Americans shouldn't be ashamed of that.

The Watergate case has exploded. From day to day, almost hour to hour, new revelations bring the truth closer to light. The grand jury investigation now underway and the Senate hearings that begin in mid-May will be the real start of the cleansing action that Americans should hope for.

Elsewhere the fumigators of foul politics are at work. "Corruption is not necessarily on the rise in the U.S.," Time magazine notes, "but the prosecution of it is."

Time chronicles the indictments brought in and convictions achieved by federal and local prosecutors against public officials in seven major U.S. cities and the state of New Jersey. The defendants were riding high in city halls, the judiciary, county governments and statehouses. The crimes range from larceny of public funds to conspiracy to bribe-taking to contract kick-backs.

Partisanship is playing a part in the exposure of corruption. In Illinois, for example, Republican U.S. Atty. "Big Jim" Thompson is getting after Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's Cook County Democratic machine with all barrels ablaze. But the partisan angle does not detract from the fact that Chicago has been long overdue for a housecleaning.

For a long time after the Watergate incident was uncovered we thought America had temporarily taken leave of its conscience, because most people were not concerned with what happened. They are becoming concerned now, as the web is untangled, and it's a relief.

It's a relief, too, that prosecutors feel that the public mood will support a full-scale attack on alleged corruption in government. The entrenched big boys, as an assistant state's attorney in Cook County puts it, have lost their immunity.

People should not be depressed if more and more corruption surfaces. It's there anyway, and we shouldn't ignore it. It is a healthy thing for this country to purge its impurities.

Spending Highway Money

The House version of the multi-billion dollar federal highway bill should not be seen as a blow struck against mass transit development, but rather as a preservation of the integrity of the highway trust fund.

By a rather narrow margin the House, at the urging of the highway lobby and rural state interests, defeated an amendment which would have allowed cities to spend some of the highway money on the construction or purchase of bus and rapid transit lines. The amendment's defeat, congressional sources say, means that it is highly doubtful that a similar Senate-passed amendment will survive the Senate-House conference in its present form.

The substantial need for funds to develop or renew mass transit systems in urban areas really was not the point. The point was in what manner such systems should be funded. We're not sure whether the house plan for aiding mass transit will meet the need, but that is a problem which should be worked out separately.

Busting the highway trust fund could conceivably open up that source of highway-building money for untold, pie-in-the-sky schemes less desirable than mass transit systems.

And that was the most legitimate argument offered by those pitted against the Nixon administration and the coalition of governors, mayors, environmentalists and transit groups, all of which wanted to tap the highway trust fund for mass transit.

The need for mass transit development, the extent of the need for highway construction and the impact of highway construction on the environment are different arguments entirely.

TOM WICKER

Ellsberg In The Dock

LOS ANGELES — There is no Perry Mason atmosphere in the trial of Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo for releasing the Pentagon Papers. Federal Judge Matthew Byrne runs a strict courtroom, and neither the defense nor the prosecuting attorneys are much given to dramatics. A technique of the prosecutor, David R. Nissen, seems to be to extract from witnesses one minute detail after another in a dogged search for inconsistencies or inaccuracies. The basic facts of the case, however, are largely agreed upon, which removes the major opportunities for suspense and surprise.

Dan Ellsberg, who was on the stand most of this week, proved a soft-spoken and self-possessed witness. It was what he said, under the restrictive courtroom rules gave him a chance, rather than how he said it, that occasionally charged the proceedings with some of his own intensity.

"I believe," he said at one point "I would say I knew that not a page of those exhibits could injure the national defense if disclosed to anyone." The information he had disclosed, he conceded, was "painful" since it showed that the intentions of American officials in waging the war in Vietnam were "not all that easy to describe as good," but he insisted steadfastly that it could not hurt the nation to know the truth of its own affairs.

It is true that a vital issue in this case is whether the information in the Pentagon Papers could have damaged the national defense; in that respect, Ellsberg's statement may have been self-serving. But it was his quality as a witness that his quiet voice and demeanor conveyed unmistakably the sincerity of his belief that — as he put it later in a paraphrase of "security" jargon — any "citizen and taxpayer" had in 1969 "an urgent need to know" what was in the Pentagon Papers.

Unfortunately, what Dan Ellsberg believed when he and Russo began copying the Pentagon Papers in a Los Angeles advertising agency is not likely to be the decisive factor in this all but unprecedented trial. However, persuasively he may have described his "state of mind" in 1969, under this week's direct and cross examination, his fate may well hang instead on Judge Byrne's final instruction to the jury on the meaning of the phrase "relating to the national defense."

Under the extraordinary indictment the government has drawn up, Ellsberg is not charged with violating the espionage act in such a way that the prosecution must show he had "intent" to damage the interests of the United States. That makes this unique among all the espionage cases since the act was amended to its present form in 1950. Ellsberg is charged with violating a section prohibiting the disclosure of information "relating to the national defense" to persons not entitled to have such information; Byrne has stated the preliminary opinion that no showing of intent is required by that particular section.

The prosecution still must prove, however, that the Pentagon Papers were, in fact, documents "relating to the national defense." On that issue, Byrne seems to be holding to two propositions. The first is that whatever classification markings might have been on the documents ("top secret") is irrelevant, and that the jury will have to decide for itself, without reference to government classification, whether the Pentagon Papers related to the national defense.

The second proposition so far suggested by Byrne's preliminary rulings and his conduct of the trial is that a document so relates if it is what he has called "classifiable" — that is, "at a minimum, did they contain information or material, the unauthorized disclosure of which could be prejudicial to the defense interests of the United States?" The "could be" is obviously the operative phrase, since it apparently would

One Life

Bennet, Neb. Here was a young man who was born in an obscure village, the child of a peasant woman. He worked in a carpenter shop until he was 30, and then for three years he was a preacher. He never wrote a book. He never held an office. He never had a family. He never went to college. He never inside a large city. He never traveled 200 miles from the place he was born.

While still a young man, the tide of public opinion turned against him. His friends deserted him. He was turned over to his enemies. He went through the mockery of a trial. He was nailed to a cross between two thieves. His executioners gambled for the only piece of property he had on earth and that was his robe. When he was dead, he was laid in a borrowed grave. Nineteen centuries have come and gone, and today he is the central figure of the human race, and the leader of the column of progress.

All the armies that ever marched and all the navies that ever sailed, and all the parliaments that ever sat and all the kings that ever reigned put together have not affected the life of man upon earth as that one solitary life.

His teaching was not easy, but history shows that those who took up their crosses and followed him have had peace of mind, which is a foretaste of heaven on earth. But those who ignored his teaching and followed the way of the world only made their own hell on earth themselves, and have experienced a sample of eternal misery.

Rare Boners

Lincoln, Neb. In the April 11 Star, I just have to call your attention to a few items which reflect an ideological change in mores. And that troubles me.

Item No. 1 indicates that the overloaded courts are so overloaded that they have gone plumb daft and are charging the same poor little man twice on the same day for having driven in a negligent manner, albeit the fellow pleaded nolo contendere. Each time he was whacked for $25. That's enough to buy two T-bones.

Now, also with regard to ideological mores, I read something liberalizing abortions in some state or another. That's no longer news; that's just the ideological more now going on. Everybody glares at a new parent of a third, fourth, fifth, etc. child, and even stares at the new parent of Child No. 1. Gosh. It's stylish nowadays to abort and all that. But how illogical can society be when in spite of the ban on babies that is so stylish, one young woman had a nice write-up saying, "Plattsburgh high school sophomore beamed with pride Tuesday as she was credited with conceiving." Gee! Everything else can be

With Or Without

Lincoln, Neb. Senator Chambers' comparison of reporters to women with the statement that one can't make it with them and can't make it without them seems inconsistent for a supporter of the Equal Rights Amendment.

The use of the term, "them," is as discriminatory when applied to women as when applied to any other group.

One who supports the E. R. A. should adopt the attitude that one can live with women and one can live without them. That's what the E. R. A. is all about.

MARLIN PALS

Salary Increase

Lincoln, Neb. "Salary Repeat Warranted" (Star, April 9)

Lincolinites have turned down the City Council salary increase proposal twice in the past year. Now they want them to place it on the may general election ballot.

If this is going to be the rule in the future to re-run certain issues defeated in the primary and place them on the general ballot. Why have the April primary election, at all? Enough money could be saved to double the City Council's pay within several years and save city residents money at the same time.

There has been talk of a recount but this may prove the voting machines are not accurate. I'm sure the city wants the machines, so no recount.

Those seeking office know the salary, duties and fringe benefits when they run for office. One of the "fringe benefits" was a City Council meeting in Hawaii at the same time that Big Red just happened to be playing football there a couple of years ago.

Eight votes defeated the salary raise. These young voters and the working class are penny-wise and dollar-conscious, so they're showing up at the voting booth on election day.

Eight votes defeating an issue proves that every vote counts. MARIE DENNIS

Good Deal

Alexandria, Neb. After experiencing the New Deal, the Square Deal, the Great Society flop, and now the wise Dictator Deal, it is heartening to hear a person in government, our representative, Charles Thone, come out publicly and unequivocally for the old deal, the free market deal, the selling person versus the buying person deal, where the government stood by, performing fairly well its proper function of seeing to it that neither seller nor buyer played too rough or too much violated the rules of the game but otherwise kept its long ignorant nose out.

Walton Column

Lincoln, Neb. I have read the column of Don Walton in the Monday morning Star and I feel that Don owes an apology to the many good loyal football fans of Nebraska.

I realize that he was trying to be humorous but he only painted the good Nebraska fans as a bunch of drunks.

I agree that the 4:00 p.m. starting time is bad but with the loyal fans we have, it will be attended by loyal sober Nebraska fans just as if it were at 1:30 p.m.

I have liked most of Don's columns but this one has an odor about it that I certainly do not like.

I hope this is only one of thousands of letters of protest. RALPH E. CONNELL

Donald Lentz

Philadelphia, Pa. I was sorry not to be able to attend the luncheon honoring Prof. Donald A. Lentz during the Nebraska Bandmasters Conference, but do wish to express sincere congratulations to Prof. Lentz on his retirement. Mr. Lentz is and has been a leader and pioneer in the development of bands in America, as evidenced by his early performances with the Sousa band, through his introduction of Band Day to the American bands, in addition to his publications, compositions and development of fine bands at the University of Nebraska. Also, many of his students have gone into the musical field and are highly respected.

I have always been proud to have the opportunity to know Mr. Lentz and be one of his students, participating in his always great bands at Nebraska. The heritage of fine band and musical work that he has created will indeed be an inspiration to the profession for many years to come.

Terry's Antics

Blair, Neb. At long last, I find myself "in bed with Senator Carpenter" on at least one of his positions as taken in the Unicameral! Why not a chance for us to vote on a constitutional amendment which would set the age limit in our Legislature at 65? If passed, this might be the only way to eliminate Mr. Carpenter himself, since he appears to be the only immoral human being to come down the pike.

However, can Terry's suggestion just be more of his playing around with his colleagues and constituents, more of his being on all sides of all issues all the time, except for his self-interest projects?

Just A Number

Bennet, Neb. With Nixon in the White House, what disaster can he bring about next? With junkets to China, Russia, Japan, plus vacations to rest in California, Florida and Camp David, one wonders of what importance the little people of America really are to him and his crowd.

He took written credit for a raise in Social Security which he actually fought, sold us out on a wheat deal to Russia, put a ceiling on meat prices as soon as the farmer got actual pay for raising the animal, taking no note of the thousands of small operators who have gone broke.

He is now closing military bases to save, but yet we should help rebuild East Asian countries. Of course, poor little Massachusetts got hit the hardest for pay for its lack of support last fall.

We are getting nearer and nearer to being merely a number on the government's records. We fought Hitler for some of these same deeds. Shouldn't it worry us just a little bit?

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer
Brandeis and Miller and Paine officials threw their hats into the ring Friday in announcing plans to build the two anchor stores in the proposed shopping center at 27th and Old Cheney Rd.

That overall plan for the $30 million complex has yet to receive the approval of the City-County Planning Commission and City Council.

Plans for two other major shopping centers also are in the works — one at 56th and Old Cheney Rd and one at 84th and O.

John Campbell of Miller and Paine and Sam Marchese of Brandeis told more than 30 Lincoln Center Development Association (LCDA) members that they "wanted to put an end to the rumors that Brandeis and Millers are closing up downtown."

Lincoln Hills South
Last Friday Lincoln businessmen E. M. O'Shea and John Morrow announced plans for Lincoln Hills South — a two-level, enclosed mall complex, with four major department stores. The center would be built by the Ericson Development Co. of Edina, Minn.

Dan Bergeron, Ericson vice president, told LCDA members that the center would be constructed in two phases.

The first phase, which would be completed within three to four years, would include Miller and Paine and Brandeis plus 75 other retail shops.

The entire project, including two additional department stores, would be finished by 1980, he said.

The first phase would cover 600,000 square feet, with the total area (including the mall, retail space and green areas) coming to 1-million-square-feet.

Plans call for the development to be built on an 80-acre site on the northeast corner of 27th and Old Cheney Rd.

Most County Offices To Close On Monday

With the exception of offices under the jurisdiction of the Lancaster County Commissioner's office, all Lancaster County offices and courts will be closed Monday in observance of Arbor Day which falls on Sunday.

Earlier this year, elected county officials agreed to follow the holiday schedule observed by the state although the county board had expressed a desire that the county offices observe the same holidays as those observed by the city.

The county elected officials and state offices including all courts observe 11 holidays including Lincoln's Birthday, Arbor Day and Columbus Day which are not observed by the City of Lincoln.

LES Pays $815,449

The Lincoln Electric System (LES) announced Friday it has made its 1972 in-lieu-of-tax payments, totaling $815,449 to governmental subdivisions in Lancaster County.

The payments are equal to 5% of the 1972 retail electric revenue from the sale of energy to Lincoln and Waverly customers.

LES Administrator Walt Canney noted that Lincoln and Waverly are the only incorporated communities served by LES.

Canney said the 1972 payments increased $192,350 over the 1971 payments and were made on revenue of $16,208,993.

The payment to County Treasurer Frank Golden, who distributes funds to the various subdivisions, totals $595,385. That includes $489,600 to the Lincoln Public School District. The distribution is based on the mill levies in the subdivisions.

The payment to Lincoln totals $220,049 and that to Waverly totals $5,267.

Man Planning Philippines Trip For Marriage

CHICAGO (AP) — Ron Word's love knows no bounds.

He's due to leave May 3 for the Philippines to marry a pen pal he's never met, 20-year-old Grace Darlene Torralba. They have corresponded for 18 months and exchanged photographs.

"About last December," said Word, 26, a productions engineer, "we found we cared for each other more than friendship... I've told myself a thousand times that this is crazy and that I can't go through with it — but I will."

Kearney Man Pleads Guilty To Burglaries

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP)—A 23-year-old Kearney resident, Michael LaFraniere, pleaded guilty in Buffalo County District Court Friday to four of seven counts of burglary.

He pleaded guilty to charges filed in connection with burglaries at a beverage firm, a church, television warehouse, and a residence. He entered not guilty pleas to entering three other firms in Kearney.

a phone call from a man who identified himself as an employee of the First National Bank.

The man asked her how much money she had deposited in the bank and then told her that he was sure someone had taken $3,000 from her account.

He told her to go down to the bank and withdraw $3,000 and to be evasive if the teller began questioning her. Then, he told her, a man would come to her house, pick up the money and redeposit it, so that the loss could be traced to the guilty person.

The woman told police she did as the man ordered. As she was walking home from the bank, she said, a man walked up to her at 12th and J, identified himself as "Brown, No. 7" from the bank. She gave him the money.

Still later in the day, she said, the man called her and told her that her money had been recovered and that the culprit had been caught.

The woman described the man to whom she gave the money as a white male, about 30 to 35, about 5 feet, 5 inches tall, weighing about 130 pounds, with short, straight brown hair, and wearing a dark gray suit.

Escaped Convict Holds Housewife At Gunpoint

VALENTINE, Neb. (AP)—A housewife from rural Rushville, Neb., was released unharmed Friday evening after having been held hostage for some four hours at gunpoint.

Authorities said Mrs. Milo Musfeldt was taken hostage by a man claiming to be an escaped convict from the Sandstone Federal Prison in Minnesota.

He gave his name to authorities as Donald Hatch.

The incident began early Friday afternoon when a state trooper stopped Hatch on a speeding violation near Rushville. When the trooper walked toward the car Hatch sped off, driving to the Musfeldt home outside of Rushville.

Mrs. Musfeldt told authorities that she was just getting into her pickup when the man drove up, pointed a sawed-off shotgun at her and told her to get back into the pickup.

They drove to a point eight miles west of Valentine where they were stopped by a roadblock. After several hours of negotiation, Hatch surrendered to officials when he was assured that he would not be harmed.

Authorities said Hatch was armed with the shotgun and a small pistol. He is being held in the Cherry County Jail at Valentine.

Included among those who will be doing a bit of traveling during the weekend are Mr. and Mrs. Fred Witt and son, Fred, who make their home in the Fiene Heights neighborhood.

The Witt family will drive to Ralston tomorrow for a holiday celebration and dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Witt's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Tad Dunham and sons, David and Ted.

Bethany Park Heights residents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Hinrichs and daughters, Amy Lynn and Lori Ann, will also spend Easter away from Lincoln. They will travel to Milligan where they will be guests at the home of Mrs. Hinrichs' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kubicek.

Two festive get-togethers are on the agenda this weekend for Mr. and Mrs. Wayne B. Roelle and children, Cynthia and Curtis. Today, the Roelles will motor to Omaha where they will attend a family dinner to be held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Roelle's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kwiatkowski and sons, Matthew and John.

Also taking part will be another of Mrs.

Susan plans to return home Tuesday.

We should also mention the fact that the home of Mr. and Mrs. White was the scene of a birthday celebration on Monday, April 16. The honoree was Mr. and Mrs. White's daughter, Mary Jane, who officially joined the ranks of six-year-olds on Friday, April 20.

Taking part in the after-school party were Shelley Riegert, Billy Morrison, Robin Reynolds, Charmie Barnett, Stephanie Anderson, Daryl Loos and Dennis Phelps.

A Friday Bride

At 7:30 o'clock on Friday evening, April 20, the wedding of Miss Cathleen Anne Pettet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon E. Pettet, and Gary F. Jerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Jerman of Omaha, took place at St. Mark's United Methodist Church. The Rev. Warren Swartz solemnized the ceremony.

White silk organza and Chantilly lace fashioned the gown chosen by the bride. The lace formed an overlay on the fitted bodice, designed with a high, lace-banded collar and deeply cuffed Bishop sleeves and patterned with lace-edged ruffles. The lace was repeated to widely band the hem of the A-line silhouette skirt. Her tiered veil was elbow-length and was held in place with a lace bandeau.

Opening lead - queen of diamonds.

It stands to reason that a finesse should be avoided when there is an alternative play that may gain a trick without incurring the risk inherent in a finesse.

South is in six spades and West leads a diamond, won by declarer with the ace. What should he do next?

Eleven tricks are in sight, counting a diamond ruff in dummy, and the only real problem is to avoid a heart loser. Obviously, if a heart finesse is attempted and succeeds, the slam will come marching home. Equally, if the finesse is taken and fails, so will the slam.

Similarly, if declarer takes a club finesse instead, he makes the contract if it turns out that West has the king. In that case he would discard the queen of hearts on the ace of clubs.

The finesse are equally likely to succeed, and which queen to finesse appears to be a tossup. But, actually, it would be wrong to take either finesse before trying an altogether different approach to the play.

After winning the diamond, South should play a club to the ace and ruff a club. He then leads a trump to the queen and ruffs another club. With both opponents following suit, the slam is a certainty, even though the club king has not yet fallen.

Declarer crosses to dummy with a trump and ruffs still another club, finally establishing the queen as a trick. He then leads a diamond. East wins and returns a heart, but South takes the ace, ruffs a diamond, and discards the queen of hearts on the queen of clubs.

In adopting this method of play, South at no point relinquishes the 50 per cent chance for a successful heart finesse. If it turns out that the clubs are unfavorably divided, which South will discover fairly early, he can still fall back on the heart finesse.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old wife and mother of a 3-year-old son. Due to financial circumstances, I am a working mother — but because my husband works nights (he's a baker) he stays with the baby all day. I asked my doctor if the baby would be affected if I worked days, and he said as long as he is with one loving parent there would be no harm.

My problem is that I just found out that my best friend's husband has told others that I am an unfit mother because all children need their mothers with them and that I am selfish to be working.

Also my girl friend didn't say anything. I am quite hurt that she didn't stick up for me, and frankly don't think our friendship can now last because I'm so angry. What would you suggest?

FIT MOTHER

DEAR FIT: You seem to be getting a lot of second-hand feedback. Why don't you just tell whomever it was who told you what your best friend's husband supposedly told others about you, that there is so much backbiting going on, you never believe a thing unless you hear it with your own ears — which isn't a bad idea.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, 20, and my son, 18, recently got into a violent argument. Here's the story: My son was recently fitted with contact lenses, and the other night he removed them at the dinner table. My daughter was revolted and said he should have left the dinner table. My son said that since contact lenses serve the same purpose as eyeglasses, it was no more "revolting" to remove them at the dinner table than it would be to remove one's eyeglasses.

What do you say?

BROOKLYN FATHER
DEAR FATHER: I say, all the consideration your son has for his fellow diners, he can stick in his eye.

DEAR ABBY: Your column in the Nevada State Journal and the subject of putting a bottle of whisky in the casket reminded me of when my Uncle Pat, an old country Irishman, was dying. His best friend, Jerry, asked Pat if there was anything he could do for him. Pat replied that he had a bottle of fine Irish whisky in the closet, and would Jerry sprinkle it on his grave after he was buried.

Jerry replied, "I'd be glad to, Pat, but you don't mind if I strain it thru me kidneys first, do ya?"

State And Federal Officials Call For Amendment Defeat

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

Officials of the State Department of Roads and the Federal Highway Administration (FHA) Friday joined city and county officials in calling for the defeat of Amendment No. 2.

That amendment was placed on the May 1 general election ballot through an initiative petition drive spearheaded by the Coalition Against the Radial.

The amendment sets out planning procedures for road projects costing in excess of $15 million and requires the unanimous approval of the City Council on such projects. Failing such a unanimous decision, the question is then decided by a majority vote of the people.

Action came at a special meeting of the Officials Committee, who acted upon the recommendation made moments earlier by the Technical Committee.

To Review Proposals

Those two groups review all transportation development proposals for the Lincoln metropolitan region.

The Officials Committee is composed of Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf, County Board Chairman Robert Colin, Sr. and Department of Roads Director Thomas Doyle, plus an ex-officio member from the FHA.

The Technical Committee is made up of staff members from the various governmental agencies.

The officials contended that the amendment would jeopardize the present coordination on comprehensive planning which is governed by federal regulations.

Additionally, the group contended that the provisions set out in the amendment would tie the city's hands by eliminating any flexibility the city had in meeting changing federal regulations.

Although agreeing that the major reason for the amendment was due to opposition to the proposed Northeast Radial, the group, in a statement, said,

"the issue is purely a political one."

"In Political Arena"

"Such an issue should not be resolved by the creation of additional, binding legislation, but instead should be decided in the political arena," the statement said.

FHA representatives pointed out that the charter amendment contains basically the same type of comprehensive planning procedures already being followed by state officials.

Those state guidelines were developed in response to federal requirements that the state consider environmental, social and economic impacts of proposed transportation projects.

Even though the amendment would comply with the present qualifications, the officials said flexibility for change would be lost — and possibly federal and state funding.

Instead, any future changes in federal guidelines would require a public referendum to update the charter provisions on the subject.

Mayor Schwartzkopf said the addition of the amendment to the city's charter "would be the same as having the Federal Highway Administration rules outlined in the U.S. Constitution."

Problems 'Legion'

Charles Humble, chief assistant city attorney, told the group that the problems with the amendment are "legion," adding that provisions of the amendments are difficult to interpret.

He said in many instances a judicial judgment might have to be made to determine if there is a conflict between provisions of the amendment and federal or state regulations.

City Public Works Director Bob Obering asked if the proper route for setting up such planning procedures as outlined in the amendment would be through City Council action.

Humble said the council could enact an ordinance establishing such rules.

Being Sued

Mrs. Florence S. Long, widow of former Sen. Edward V. Long, Friday filed a $3.25 million alienation-of-affection suit against Helen Dunlop, above, the senator's secretary and longtime companion. The suit followed by hours disclosure that the Nov. 6 death of Long at his farm near Clarksville, Mo., was being investigated. In a letter written four months after Long's death, Miss Dunlop told police Long died after eating poison candy.

Dinsmore Sees Art Deficiency In Elementary

Lincoln Board of Education candidate Martin A. Dinsmore says he believes the "study of art has been neglected, particularly at the elementary level" in Lincoln schools.

"I believe that more effort is needed to identify younger students who have natural talent in art, and more instruction is necessary to help them develop these talents," he said.

"I would hope that as the declining number of students reduces the pressure on our resources, that some of these personnel and funds can be utilized for art specialists at the elementary school levels along with art rooms for better utilization of art prints, equipment and materials."

Rauch Wants More Publicity On Expenses

Lincoln Board of Education candidate Robert Rauch says he "would be very concerned with finding new and better ways of informing the public about school expenditures" if he were elected to the board.

Rauch is one of the candidates in the upcoming general election.

He said the school board "has a continuing duty to insure efficient expenditures of tax monies, regardless of special interests of school administrators."

"The public is largely unaware of the extent of tax dollars available to the school system and how they are spent," he said.

Julie Ebers Gets College Scholarship

Julie Ann Ebers, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Dale W. Ebers, has been awarded a freshman scholarship to North Park College, Chicago, Ill. Miss Ebers is a student at Lincoln East High School.

Coalition For Communication Is Content With Just Talking

By PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

In an age when so many social agencies are clamoring for action, Lincoln's Coalition for Communication is content with talk.

In fact, it was created for just that purpose.

Sponsored by Justice, Inc., City Wide Tenants Assn. and the public affairs committee of the YWCA, the coalition was organized last fall "to fill a need that groups have to air their ideas and to see what potential encouragement and support exists among other organizations."

The original membership letter goes on to say that the primary purpose of such a coalition is the "interchange of information" and the "coordination of activities" among the various organizations.

Autonomy

Jackie Lipsky, one of the originators of the coalition and chairperson since its creation, stressed that the group does not intend to be a policy-making organization. Each member retains complete autonomy and the group as a whole never takes a stand on issues nor publishes statements.

With as many as 30 members at its monthly meetings, the coalition provides a common denominator for a number of social agencies who might effectively work together in taking positive action on important community issues.

A lack of communication among groups sharing the same interests weakens what could possibly be a strong and tenable position, said Ms. Lipsky.

Robinson Calls For Openness In Government

City Council candidate John Robinson Friday called for more openness in government and suggested that the council consider holding evening meetings.

Additionally, Robinson said he would work for an arrangement whereby council members would meet with citizens at set times at different sites throughout the city.

He also suggested that council members could more actively seek out the views of existing groups and neighborhood organizations.

He also called for full disclosure of all campaign contributions.

Nancy Childs Says Expenses Amount To $409

City Council candidate Nancy Childs disclosed her primary election campaign expenditures Friday and called upon the other council candidates to follow suit.

Mrs. Childs said her expenditures amounted to $409.29.

"I believe the people of Lincoln have a right to know how these campaigns are being run and what the costs are."

As an example Ms. Lipsky told of her plea to the coalition for support when Justice Inc. opposed the renewal of the Elks Club liquor license before the City Council. In response several groups appeared before the council to register their protest, she reported.

Clearinghouse

On a day to day basis, Ms. Lipsky explained how the coalition serves as a clearinghouse for social agencies to acquire meeting places and mailing lists when needed. The group also maintains a master list of meeting dates so that conflicts might be avoided when several groups are involved.

Putting people in touch with the appropriate agencies is another service of the coalition. Agencies needing funds are guided toward those community

Nevada Law Allows Practice Of Acupuncture

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — Gov. Mike O'Callaghan signed into law Friday a measure making Nevada the first state to allow acupuncture to be practiced without supervision of licensed U.S. physicians.

The bill allowing the ancient Chinese healing art involving use of thin, sharp needles had run into opposition from Nevada medical groups. But demonstrations of the technique on more than 400 persons here apparently convinced lawmakers there was merit in the practice.

Prof. Lok Yee Kung of the Hong Kong Society of Acupuncture treated at least 20 law-makers as part of the acupuncture demonstrations. The society was behind the drive for passage of the legislation.

The American Medical Association has said the only other state to act on acupuncture is California, where the practice is allowed in medical schools or hospitals where doctors are trained.

Death Penalty Bill Is Signed

Gov. J. James Exon Friday morning signed into law the new state capital punishment bill.

The bill passed by this session of the Legislature provides the death sentence for certain major crimes.

Exon said he was "hopeful" the bill would stand any constitutional tests.

Nebraska Federal Contracts Total $3.5 Million This Year

The State Department of Economic Development reported Friday that $3.5 million in federal contracts were awarded to Nebraska firms during the month of February.

Of that sum, $2.9 million was spent for defense-related projects, while the remaining $511,558 was spent by non-defense agencies. The February figures bring the total federal contracts awarded to Nebraska firms during fiscal 1973 to $22.7 million.

The totals gave Nebraska a ranking of last in the four-state region of Missouri, Iowa, Kansas and Nebraska. Missouri firms have landed the greatest share of federal spending in the region thus far in fiscal 1973 with $461.8 million worth of contracts. Kansas was second with $213.3 million, and Iowa third with $111.1 million.

The federal contracts awarded to Nebraska firms during February were:

The James E. Simon Co. of North Platte, $2 million; the LaVern Fritzen Construction Co. of Beatrice, $112,541; the Acorn Spec. & Supply Co. of Omaha, $28,082; Mid-America Webpress of Lincoln, $30,602; Kansas-Nebraska Natural Gas Co. of Hastings, $41,000; Korshoj Construction Co. of Omaha, $155,737; the Brunswick Corp. of Lincoln, $570,396; Nebraska Commonwealth Electric Co. of Lincoln, $28,000; Empak Industries of Omaha, $65,781; Geo. W. Ruzicka Construction Co. of Wahoo, $167,177; Livestock Press of Omaha, $26,228; Sub-surco, Inc., of Grand Island, $146,930; and the Sides Construction Co. of Omaha, $97,400.

Candidates For School Board To Give Views

The six candidates for the Lincoln School Board have agreed to present their views on public education at an open meeting next Tuesday evening.

The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be in the Unitarian Church at 6300 A.

Sponsoring the gathering is the newly-formed American Federation of Teachers of Lincoln.

Rudolph Seeks Joint Meetings For Planning

Lincoln Board of Education candidate Wallace Rudolph says the school board, the City Council and the City-County Planning Commission should meet regularly to discuss neighborhood planning.

Meetings of such an advisory group, he said, would replace "the existing ad hoc meetings that now occur between the City Council and the Board of Education."

"Neighborhood planning must include school site selection and planning since the growth and decline of neighborhoods directly relates to the quality of schools in the neighborhoods," he said.

In art or sculpture it is called a Christus, an artist's interpretation of Our Lord.
In a passion play the leading role is the Christus . . . again an artist's interpretation.
Through the centuries there have been many faces, many interpretations. Yet all so easily recognizable . . .
Because we know Christ not by sight, but by the qualities of His life for us. We are drawn not to a face but to a heart, a Heart that loved and gave and promised and fulfilled.
However simple or crude someone's sketch of the Master . . . in seeing his Lord we see ours. We are not critics, but believers.

Airstrip OKd Over Protests

... 30,000-Volt Line Planned

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Aeronautics Commission Friday approved the site location of a private airstrip on the Elton E. Miller property near Wakefield over the protests of the Nebraska Public Power District.

Miller sought site approval for his airstrip, which has been in existence for some years, after NPPD announced plans to construct a 30,000-volt power line near the airstrip.

Normally, when a power company notifies the Public Services Commission that it intends to build a new power line, the site is checked with the Aeronautics Commission for possible conflicts with air traffic.

However, according to acting Aeronautics Director John Auer, NPPD had not applied to the Public Services Commission for authority to construct the line.

The commission approved Miller's site on the basis that his petition for an approved airstrip preceded any notification of NPPD's plans, according to Auer.

Auer said the power line cannot easily be diverted from its intended path and added that NPPD has instituted condemnation proceedings against Miller.

The commission also granted site approval to three other airports:

- the Curry Ranch near Atkinson.
- Luetkenhas Field near Memphis.
- and the Greeley Municipal Airport.

The commission in other action voted to allocate $6,000 in state funds to the Pender Municipal Airport to pay for cost over-runs incurred in the airport's construction.

The original cost estimate was $27,500.

First Project Of Bicentennial Slated In May

By BOB RUMMEL
Associated Press Writer

On May 4-5, foreign exchange students in the state will gather at historic Ft. Kearny for a conference which has double significance for Nebraskans. It will represent the first statewide gathering of students from foreign lands and will be the first sanctioned project of the state's American Revolution Bicentennial Commission to be undertaken.

Although at first glance the meeting of foreign exchange students does not appear to have any relation to the American Revolution, it fits the mold of projects envisioned for the commemoration of the nation's 200th birthday.

Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox, commission chairman, says national and state plans for the bicentennial are keyed to projects and events which emphasize heritage and history, the nation's future, and stimulation of travel within the country and extending a welcome to visitors.

The categories are officially designated as Heritage 76, Horizons 76 and Festival 76.

Although the actual celebration is more than three years away, the 15-member Nebraska commission already has reviewed a host of projects and has officially endorsed several.

Three projects endorsed at a meeting earlier this year will honor several noted Nebraskans.

One involves plans to construct a Marie Sandoz Center in the Sandhills to serve as a library and research center which sponsors say would "bring more culture to an area presently devoid of cultural activities."

Dancers To Tap, Polka In 'Hi Neighbor Review'

Lincoln Star Special

Wymore — Singers and dancers from 10 communities will go on stage Thursday and Friday, April 26 and 27, in Wymore for a "Hi, Neighbor Review."

Sponsored by the Wymore Community Improvement Council, the show is being presented to raise funds for a Community Center. Performances will be at 8 p.m. in the Southern High auditorium.

The "Hi, Neighbor" theme for the show was chosen because of the many towns represented by the 60-member cast. Performers are from Summerfield, Kan., Wymore, Blue Springs, Holmesville, Liberty, Odell, Barneston, Beatrice, Lincoln and Omaha.

Some of the numbers are Indian dances, square dance, curtain act, polka, accordion solo, harem dance, soft shoe, kitchen band, can can, fiddling, tap dance and comedy dance.

A chorus line of rockettes will join waltzers, schottische dancers, Charleston gals, round dance and ballroom partners in the fund-raising event.

Three Wymore women are the show's main directors. Mrs. James Boettcher is overall director, assisted by Mrs. Mel Pettit, vocal director, and Mrs. Vic Schafer, choreographer.

Cather Museum have proposed two land purchases. One would be the 160 acres homesteaded by the author's father and the other in Red Cloud. Both were settings for books by the Nebraska author.

A John Neihardt Center at Bancraft would house records, a museum and an educational center.

A plan offered by F. W. Thomsen of Dana College at Blair also has received approval. His proposal calls for the construction on college land of a large monument honoring Black Elk and Neihardt.

Memorial Day, 1976

The commission also has endorsed a proposal by Edwin H. Garrison, state probate administrator, for a gigantic Memorial Day observance in 1976 to be staged in Memorial stadium in Lincoln.

The proposal suggests, "Honored guests could be the oldest citizen from every town, the valedictorian and salutatorian from every high school, veterans and service organizations, Girl and Boy Scouts, a 'Spirit of '76' play and other special programs.

The commission, which is operating this year on a $5,000 state appropriation and a $45,000 federal grant, has reviewed numerous other proposals from communities and individuals.

A McCook proposal suggests that a water tower constructed in 1883 be converted into an electric fountain with lights as a George W. Norris memorial. The tower is across the state from the Norris Memorial House.

Another idea from McCook is for an interpretive museum of western history.

Water Museum

Perhaps one of the most innovative proposals comes from Cozad. Mrs. Lee Whitehead has proposed a water museum there which "would dramatize how we have developed our resources to supply electrical power, harnessed the effects of floods, how we irrigate our crops, water our livestock, provide for our growing industries, support navigations and conserve our soil."

The commission at its last meeting approved the use of $2,400 for colored plates to help print a booklet to give Nebraskans tips on planting trees.

Other suggestions have included the Pioneer Monument over Interstate 80, possible use of the old Union Pacific depot in Omaha as a tourist orientation center, a series of Meriwether Lewis developments along the Missouri River, a grassland trails project and a Nebraska farm-completeness with animals — constructed as it would have appeared in 1876.

Although the state commission can in some instances provide funds for projects, Ziebarth says its mission is "to provide information and resources for seeking out funding from federal agencies." The commission is represented at the federal level by Fred Seaton of Hastings.

Ziebarth says the time for submission of projects is growing short. July 4 is the deadline and after that date commission members will study and review proposals and make final recommendations.

Attorney Seeks Continuances For Three In Scottsbluff Case

Gering (AP) — An attorney has filed motions in Scotts Bluff County District Court seeking continuances in a case growing out of Chicano and Indian disturbances in Scottsbluff last January.

C. F. Fitzke asked the court to grant continuances for Carter Camp, 28, Alonzo Victor, 28, both of Stillwater, Okla., and Stanley Holder, 22, of Grace-mont, Okla.

Electrocution Of Employee Investigated

Shelby (AP) — Authorities are investigating the apparent electrocution of an employee at the Shelby Fertilizer, Feed and Seed Co. The victim was Dale Carter, 66, of Shelby.

Carter died Thursday. An autopsy was scheduled in Lincoln.

Authorities said Carter's body was found where he had been unloading a railroad car loaded with fertilizer onto an electric auger.

Authorities said it appeared he had been electrocuted.

Carter had been employed with the Shelby firm for 18 years, sources said.

Pinto To Speak At CPA Meet

Michael A. Pinto, director of administration for the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB), will be guest speaker at the Nebraska Society for Certified Public Accountants meeting Tuesday at the Legionnaire Club.

The FASB replaces the former Accounting Principles Board as the official body for establishing rules for corporate financial reporting.

Embassy Opens

BERLIN (AP) — Britain has opened an embassy in East Germany.

The trio is charged with carrying a concealed weapon and possession of a destructive device. They were scheduled to appear in court Friday, but Fitzke's motion seeks a continuance to May 9.

Fitzke said he has been told by an attorney representing Camp and Holder in another jurisdiction that the two men are "virtually prisoners of the United States government at Wounded Knee, S. D."

He quoted John Keller, an attorney associated with the Wounded Knee Legal Defense Association, as saying there is presently no means of communication in or out of Wounded Knee and that the government will not allow the two men to leave Wounded Knee to appear in court.

Fitzke's affidavit on behalf of Victor stated that he has been unable to make contact with Victor and that his whereabouts are unknown.

Stumping Lincoln's Council Trail

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

That good ol' American campaign style — it's been around about as long as baseball, hot dogs and mom's apple pie.

As Lincoln's six City Council candidates can confirm — campaigning involves a lot of footwork, handshakes, meetings and the old standby, hot (?) coffee.

With their calendars booked to overflowing, the council hopefuls are heading toward their final week of campaigning.

Three of the six will be elected in the May 1 general election.

Vying for the electorate's much wanted vote are housewife Sue Bailey, realtor Nancy Childs, attorney Max Denney, retired Public Safety Director Emmett Junge, senior law student John Robinson and attorney William Thierstein.

Of the six, only two — Denney and Mrs. Childs — are veterans of the campaign circuit. The remaining four are novices.

Denney formerly was Fair-bury County Attorney and a Fairbury School Board member and has been active in state Republican party politics.

Mrs. Childs ran unsuccessfully for the council in 1970 and has been active in state Democratic party politics.

Mrs. Bailey has been active for 16 years in the Lincoln League of Women Voters and is a member of the Region II Crime Commission and the Goals and Policies Committee.

Junge served as Public Safety

Director from 1955 to 1970 after being in business for a number of years.

Robinson is a senior law student at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and is a member of the Goals and Policies Committee.

Thierstein is general counsel for the Nebraska Council on Alcohol Education and is active in his church's shorts program.

Regardless of the outcome of the general election — all six will be ready to take a much needed rest after May 1.

Ford-Kemling Rivalry Heads Nebraska Derby

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Grand Island — Bart Ford and Paul Kemling, who have been among the leading owners in Nebraska for many years, continue their rivalry Saturday here at Fonner Park in the seventh running of the Nebraska Derby.

Ford, with his swift colt Scurry Home and Kemling, with his filly Native Record, are expected to be among the strongest of the 10 competitors for the mile allowance stakes with an estimated purse of $13,000.

Scurry Home, co-top-weighted at 117 pounds, has captured two of three Fonner starts this year, including a mile allowance scamper on April 13. He also won a 6-furlong allowance test back on March 21.

A winner of $2,460 this season, he will be ridden by Jerry Rettele.

Native Record, however, probably has the outstanding record of the entrants.

In four Fonner starts, she has two wins, one second and one third for winnings of $8,357. Her victories have come in the Fonner Inaugural Handicap, the $10,090 Fonner Special Stakes, while she placed second to Pro Raja in the $5,600 Grand Island Elks Handicap and third in the $3,000 Fonner Speed Handicap.

Native Record may be the chief foe to Scurry Home, who will attempt to bring Ford the Nebraska Derby title for the second straight year. The Valley horseman scored last year with City Visitor.

Sharing top-weight with Scurry Home will be Don Von Hemel and D. R. Coberly's Solid Pepper, a winner of one of four starts this year for $2,696.

Although the black gelding finished third four lengths behind Scurry Home on April 13, he has been in a money position in each start this year with one win, one second and two shows.

Two imports will also try to upset the local favorites.

D. A. Engel's Hamb's Plenty, who has been campaigning this year at Oaklawn Park, and Len Opstein's Royal Knight, who has been running in Florida, may be the sleepers in the field.

Royal Knight, who will be ridden by J. L. Lively, the Ak-Sar-Ben riding champion the past two years, has started three times this year — twice at Gulfstream and once at Hialeah. His best showing was a fourth in his first start at Gulfstream.

His only win came last year at Ak-Sar-Ben when he scored by five lengths over Indian Fellow. Last year, Opstein's Excellio finished second to City Visitor in the sixth Nebraska Derby.

Among other entrants in Fonner's feature attraction for 3-year-olds will be Mrs. B. Jo Stumps' Stumpy The Boy, Virgil Beavers' Jr. Statesman (who has been running early this year at Turf Paradise in Phoenix), Don Ladd and R. T. Johnson's Home Echo, Maurice Huff's Gem D.H. and W. A. Morris' Lawrence W.

In Friday's feature $10,330 Juvenile Stakes, jockey Don Stauffer and owner Paul Kemling both agreed that Queen's Turn is a fine runner, but they differ as to her current status.

"She's the best 2-year-old filly I've ever ridden," Stauffer said. "She broke a little slow, but I wasn't worried since I knew I had the best horse."

Queen's Turn, trailing second-favored King Ody at the start and down the backstretch of the 4-furlong jaunt, began roaring around the far turn and zoomed to an easy 3 1/4-length triumph over King Ody. Her time was :47.45 over the track listed as heavy.

"She's still got to prove herself," noted Kemling. "Bold Accent (Kemling's retired famed sprinting stand-out) won eight in a row She's (Queen's Turn) running good, but she's never been on a fast track."

"The proof of the pudding is after 10 or 12 races," he added. "She's good but I really can't say how good."

As the overwhelming favorite with the crowd of 4,997, Queen's Turn returned $3.40, $2.40 and $2.20 and earned $5,681.50 for her Aurora owner.

King Ody collected $2,066 for owner Catherine Robinson of McCook and paid $2.60 and $2.40 while Lisa's Alone showed for $2.80. Lisa's Alone trailed King Ody by 10 lengths at the wire.

Kemling said Queen's Turn's next appearance would be in next Friday's Expectations Stakes, a $5,000-added 4-furlong jaunt for 2-year-olds.

Right now, however, Queen's Turn is halfway towards her goal of sweeping the Fonner juvenile championship.

RELAY MARKS TUMBLE

Wottle, Boit Run Top Anchor Legs

... FORMER OLYMPIANS SHINE

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Lawrence, Kan. — Olympic 800-meter medalists Dave Wottle and Mike Boit highlighted the 48th annual Kansas Relays here Friday afternoon at Hershberger Track.

Gold medalist Wottle anchored Bowling Green's four-mile relay team to victory in the meet record time of 16:24.0, while bronze medalist Boit anchored Eastern New Mexico's spring medley relay team to win in the college division in the meet record time of 3:15.5.

Wottle came from 10 yards back in fourth place to win with a 4:01.9, while Boit ran a blistering 1:45.1 880 anchor to pull his team from third place from about seven yards back.

The old four-mile relay meet record was 16:30.4 set by Kansas State's John Corman, Dave Peterson, Rick Hitchcock and Jerome Howe in 1971 and the old college division sprint medley relay meet record was 3:19.8 set by Texas Southern's Ray Saddler, Romer Jones, T. J. Bell and Major Adams in 1962.

Another meet record was broken by Texas' Bob Primeaux in the Cliff Cushman 440-yard intermediate hurdles with a :50.3 clocking, which bettered the old mark of :50.4 set by Oklahoma State's Jim Bolding last year.

Wottle was content to hang back in fourth place until the top of the last curve on the last lap, when he let loose with his famous kick and won going away.

Boit, who ran for Keyna in the Olympics and is only a freshman at Eastern New Mexico, began his kick at the start of the backstretch on his last lap and was also widening his lead as he finished.

Nebraska's best individual showing came from Ralph Fisher in the 120-yard high hurdles, when he turned in the second-fastest qualifying time in :13.5.

That time was a half second better than any previous time recorded by Fisher and would have broken the Husker school record of :13.8 set by Keith Gardner in 1958, but there was a 10 miles-per-hour tailwind.

Nebraska did garner two fifth places in the sprint medley and four-mile relays Bob Unger, Dan Speck, Larry Gnapp and Lynn Hall had a 16:38.6 in the four-mile relay.

In the sprint medley relay Karl Webb, Leighton Priestly Larry Cimato and Jim Hawkins ran a 3:24.9. The Huskers were in seventh place, but the Drake and Kansas State 880 anchor men collided on the last curve allowing Hakis to move up to fifth.

In the junior college division North Platte was fourth in the sprint medley relay with Randy Pittman, Larry McGhee, Leighton Hope and Jerry Brown running 3:33.8.

Nebraska Southern of Fairbury finished fifth in the sprint medley relay with Ron Nitzel, Leonard Willis, Randy Smith and Bill Jones timed in 3:35.0.

Nebraska Wesleyan's Kurt Nielsen and Kearney's Keith Nuttman both qualified for the university-college high jump on Saturday by clearing 6-8.

North Platte's Brown, Hope, McGhee and Pittman also qualified for the junior college mile relay finals with a 3:19.0, while Nebraska Southern's Joe Spight, Don Cooper, Dudley "Bones" Moxey and Smith also

U.S. Eyes Trevino Tops MONY Tourney

LONDON (AP) — Four United States Olympic gold medalists will be in the water Saturday and Monday in a 17-nation swim meet—but American team manager Ed Soltar is playing down the possibility of Olympic-type performances.

"Our swimming season has really ended and this trip is by nature of a lollipop to the competitors for all their hard work," said the Silver Spring, Md., manager.

The medalists are Melissa Belote of Springfield, Va.; Cathy Carr of Albuquerque, N.M.; Deanna Deardruff of Cincinnati and Keena Rothhammer of Santa Clara, Calif.

But Shane Gould, the Australian wonder of the Olympic Games in Munich and current holder of five world records is being billed as the star of the event while Soltar is touting 17-year-old John Naber of Menlo Park, Calif., as a youngster who might star here. Gunnar Larsson heads a strong Swedish field.

Omaha Royals Opener Tonight

Omaha — The Omaha Royals will open their home baseball season at 7 p.m. Saturday at Rosenblatt Stadium with the Wichita Aeros providing the opposition.

Former Omaha POW Gustav Mehrer will throw out the first ball and the Strategic Air Command will also be on hand for opening game ceremonies.

The Royals will meet Wichita Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday with Denver coming to Omaha for four games starting Wednesday night.

Aaron Joins Field For Kemper Open

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga., 1973 winner of the Masters, became the third major PGA player to confirm he will play in the $200,000 Kemper Open here.

Lee Trevino, British Open champion, and 1972 PGA winner Gary Player of South Africa will also appear in the tournament beginning May 31 at the Quail Hollow Country Club.

qualified in the same event at 3:25.1.

Priestly pulled a leg muscle during his 220 leg in the sprint medley relay and was sent home by Husker coach Frank Sevigne.

Sevigne called on hurdler Gary Gressett, who failed to qualify in both the 120 high and 440 intermediate hurdles, to take Priestly's place on NU's mile relay team.

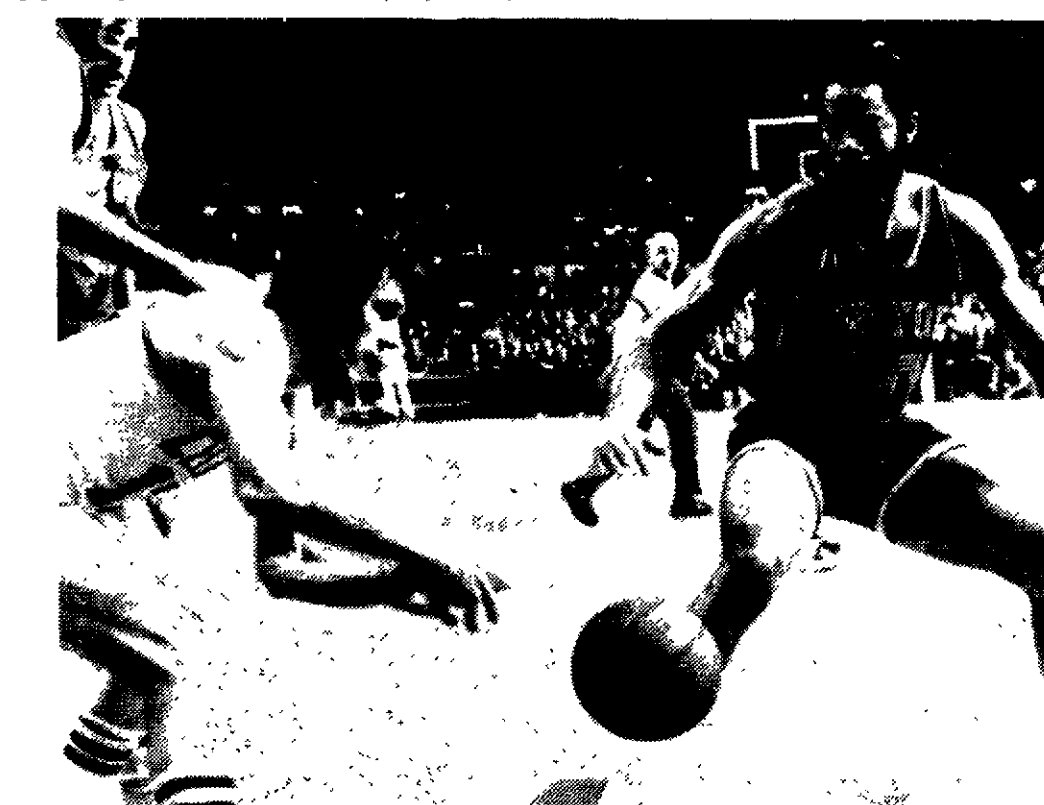

Chuck Malito led off with a :48.2. Gressett followed with a :48.3. Webb a :47.5 and Wes Leonard anchored with a :48.0 to barely qualify the Huskers for the finals with a 3:12.0, NU's best time this year.

Colorado's Steve Arkley went 51-7 in the triple jump to win. However, that effort was wind-aided as his second-best jump was 51-6 1/2 to tie the meet record of Nebraska's Lennox Berger set in 1968.

Knicks Get Win, 98-91

BOSTON (AP) — The New York Knicks shook off a Boston comeback on the sharp shooting of Bill Bradley early in the final period and went on to defeat the Celtics 98-91 Friday night and take a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association Eastern Conference finals.

The fourth game of the play-off series will be played in New York Sunday.

The Celtics rallied from a 15-point deficit and closed to within two points, 81-79, on a long shot by Don Nelson in the opening seconds of the fourth period. The Knicks, however, quickly regrouped and nailed down the victory with a run of 10 points.

Bradley ignited the surge with a long set shot. Then, after Walt Frazier scored on a driving layup, Bradley hit on a long jumper and followed with a basket from the corner.

Phil Jackson held the score to 91-79 with a set shot with less than 8 1/2 minutes remaining.

The closest the Celtics could draw after the Knick scoring outburst was 10 points.

New York, which lost Bradley on fouls with nearly four minutes left, broke away in the second period.

The lead was exchanged a dozen times with the scored tied five times before the Knicks

Husker Golfers Third

Wichita, Kan. — Nebraska captured third place here Friday afternoon in the Great Plains Invitational golf meet behind Big Eight rivals Oklahoma State and Oklahoma.

Defending champion Oklahoma State built a six-stroke lead over Oklahoma during the first day of the meet and survived the Sooners' final-day rally to win by three. The Cowboys finished with 908 while the Sooners totaled 911. NU scored 924.

Following Nebraska in scoring were Wichita State (928), Oral Roberts (944), Kansas (966) and Friends University of Wichita (1,040).

Nebraska's Dan Bahensky, who shored the first-day lead with Jim Brownfield of OSU, finished second in the meet. He fired a 71 Friday to finish 74-71-221. Mark Witt of Oklahoma took medalist honors with 75-76-69-220 while Jim Zimmerman, also of OU, finished third with 78-80-68-223.

Other Nebraska scores: Steve King, 75-80-74-229; Rich Schultz, 79-80-74-233; Gary Teal, 84-81-76-241; Bob Meyer, 81-85-80-246.

Kansas City Tastes 'Own Medicine', 16-2

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Kansas City Royals got a taste of their own medicine Friday night.

After scoring 48 runs in their first six games in their new park, the Royals ran into a 17th Chicago attack and bowed to the White Sox 16-2. It also was partial payment for a couple of 12-5 beatings the Royals handed the Sox in Chicago last weekend.

Bill Melton slammed his fourth home run in as many games, singled and doubled and drove in five runs in the White Sox' rout of the Royals. Melton's two-run homer highlighted a five-run second inning, boosting the Sox to an 8-0 lead.

Mike Andrews, the designated hitter, singled and doubled, driving in three runs.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore edged Detroit 6-5 in 10 innings, Cleveland nipped Boston 3-2, Milwaukee blanked the New York Yankees

2-0 and Minnesota beat Texas 5-1.

In the National League, Cincinnati defeated Atlanta 4-2 despite Hank Aaron's 677th career home run and Houston topped San Diego 8-6.

Mark Belanger's two-out double scored Don Baylor, who was hit by a pitch and sacrificed to second, setting up Baltimore's winning run. It was the Orioles' first run since Belanger's two-run single chased Detroit ace Mickey Lolich in the third inning. Gates Brown hit a three-run homer for the Tigers.

Charlie Spikes backed Gaylord Perry's six-hit pitching with a homer and run-scoring single as Cleveland sent Boston to its sixth straight defeat. Ben Oglivie homered for the Red Sox.

Jim Slaton stopped New York on five hits and Dave May's two-run homer in the sixth inning accounted for the Milwaukee runs. The Brewers, who didn't have a baserunner over the first five innings, got only two hits off Mel Stottlemyre-Darrell Porter's leadoff single in the sixth and May's two-out homer.

Bill Hands pitched a four-hitter and Larry Hise and Steve

Late Entry Filed For Indy '500'

Indianapolis (AP) — A last minute entry, apparently delayed in the mail, was received Friday by the Indianapolis Motor Speedway for the May 28 Indianapolis 500 auto racing classic.

The Speedway earlier this week closed its books and issued what it said was its final entry list. The deadline for filing entries for this year's race was midnight Sunday, April 15 with entries postmarked before then accepted.

A track spokesman said an entry postmarked April 14 was received Friday from Tom Frantz of Englewood, Colo., with Bruce Jacobi of Speedway, Ind., listed as the driver. The car is a 1972 Lola, powered by a turbocharged Ford engine, formerly owned by Dick Simon of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Braun set up runs with triples as Minnesota beat Texas.

Pete Rose drove in the deciding two runs with a second-inning triple in Cincinnati's triumph over Atlanta. Aaron's two-run homer in the fourth accounted for the Atlanta runs. It was his fourth of the season and left him 37 behind Babe Ruth on the all-time list.

Johnny Edwards tripled home a run and later scored in the second inning and Lee May hit a two-run double in the fifth to pace Houston past San Diego.

In West Coast night games, the Oakland A's nipped the California Angels 4-3 in the last of the ninth on Billy Conigliaro's RBI double and the San Francisco Giants whipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-3 as Juan Marichal pitched a five-hitter and Willie McCovey blasted a two-run homer.

Torn Knee Cartilage To Sideline Hoerner

Atlanta (AP) — The Atlanta Braves placed Joe Hoerner on the 21-day disabled list after the left-handed relief pitcher underwent surgery Friday for the removal of torn cartilage in his left knee.

The Braves said Hoerner, 1-1, probably will be sidelined for four to six weeks. He injured the knee in a game at San Francisco last Tuesday.

Massacre Ends After Five, 43-2

Gatlinburg, Tenn. (AP) — Both teams decided they'd had enough Friday at the end of five innings in a baseball game between Castlewood, Va., and Gatlinburg high schools.

The score at time was 43-2 in favor of Castlewood.

The Virginia team had collected 25 hits, including two home runs. Gatlinburg pitchers walked 19 batters, and the losers committed 10 errors.

Castlewood's nine starters were removed after batting four times each and running up a 19-0 lead. The nine substitutes all batted at least three times each, and some went to the plate four times.

Moore Signs Saints' Pact

New Orleans (UPI) — The New Orleans Saints have signed their No. 1 draft choice, Derland Moore, defensive tackle and end from the University of Oklahoma, to a 1973 player contract.

Moore, who was named to both the All-America and Big Eight Conference teams, will probably be tried at both his old college positions. Saints officials said Thursday.

The 6-foot-4, 250-pound lineman went to Oklahoma on a track scholarship but switched to football at the urging of then-head coach Chuck Fairbanks.

Grand Slam Pressure Absent — But Nicklaus Is Unhappy

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (AP) — The pressure's off. There's no talk of a professional Grand Slam. Jack Nicklaus is relaxed and easy-going, in sharp contrast to the nerve-tightening tension that manifested itself in his personality a year ago.

And Nicklaus is unhappy.

"I don't like it," he said when asked if he welcomed the relief from pressure that resulted in his failure to win the Masters.

"That pressure is what it's all about," the intensely competitive Nicklaus said. "I thrive on it. I want it. I miss it. No, it's not a relief to have it gone."

"It's fun to have that kind of pressure."

"If the pressure is there, it means I've won. If it's not there, it means I didn't win."

That pressure disappeared when Tommy Aaron won the Masters two weeks ago. It's the first of the four major championships—the U.S. and British Opens and the PGA national title are the others—that make up the Slam. No one ever has won all four in a season. Since Aaron won the Masters, he's the only one who could accomplish it this season.

Nicklaus has had the first leg on it five times.

He made his biggest bid for that almost unprecedented sweep last season when he won the Masters and the U.S. Open. But the bid failed when his last-round charge failed by a single stroke to overtake Lee Trevino in the British Open.

Until that time, Nicklaus's challenge to the Slam dominated sports pages. He was asked about it constantly. Reporters, and television and radio announcers hung on his every word. Every chance remark found its way into print and was subjected to microscopic analysis and interpretation.

Jack, one of the few men capable of overcoming the tremendous odds against a Slam, began to get tight and testy. His nerves drew taut.

And he gloried in it.

He kept insisting that a Slam was within the realm of possibility only after someone had swept the first three. He repeated monotonously that he was playing the major championships one at a time.

But it was an obvious relief—a negative sort of relief, perhaps—when he missed in the British Open. He retired to nearby tennis courts and worked out the nervous kinks in his muscles. And it was obvious that he was at less than his best when the PGA National Tournament came around. He played well, but he wasn't the Nicklaus of the first three tournaments.

Now the possibility of the Slam is gone for another year.

"Each of the big four tournaments is strong enough to stand on its own," Nicklaus said. "I'll play them just like I did last year—one at a time."

"I've said it all along. If you make your goal the Slam, and then fail to win the first one, then you've ruined your whole season. I didn't set that as my goal. Now my next goal is the U.S. Open."

"The Slam is something that just would happen. To make that your goal is to aim at something so far removed from the realm of what is likely to be almost beyond the imagination."

Still in front of him is the feat of surpassing career marks set by Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen. He's tied with Jones for the most major championships, 13, and is tied with Hagen for the most major professional victories, 11.

"That's not exactly a goal, though it's something I want to accomplish," Nicklaus said. "It's just something that will happen when I win the next major championship."

"I think I'm still a young man. I AM still a young man. I expect to win several more major championships and that's just something that will happen when I win the next one."

Universities Allegedly Offered Owens Cash

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Steve Owens, a Heisman Trophy winner at Oklahoma University now with the professional Detroit Lions, says he was offered up to $10,000 by one college to sign when he was finishing his high school football days.

The hard-running back made the comment in the wake of a recruiting situation that has cost his alma mater two players for next season, an assistant coach who resigned and forfeited of eight of last season's victories.

"I was offered $5,000 cash if I would sign with this one school and another school doubled the offer to $10,000," Owens said Thursday night before speaking at a Fellowship of Christian Athletes at Oral Roberts University.

Owens, who said he never considered taking the offers, did not identify the schools.

The $5,000 offer had a unique offer on delivery, he said.

"The school told me if I would sign, they'd have an airplane drop it at the Miami airport in a package and I could drive out and pick it up there," he said.

And cash wasn't the only type offer he says he had.

"I was offered cars, wardrobes, free fraternity dues, you name it. Really, a kid in my situation, coming from a large family, it was hard to turn down."

"I feel sorry for all the high school players who have to go through this. The recruiters make it awfully enticing."

"In my case, I knew where I wanted to go to school. I knew I didn't want to be a bought player. If you take the offer and if you don't perform, the schools may not want to live up to their end and they could make it rough on you. And you'd become disillusioned about the school and about people. I didn't want to go to these schools in the first place."

Owens had only high praise for Oklahoma.

He said he went to Oklahoma "looking at my long-range goals and I knew if I did well at OU, I could go on to pro football. In all honesty, all I ever received from

"I feel sorry for all the high school players who have to go through this. The recruiters make it awfully enticing."

"In my case, I knew where I wanted to go to school. I knew I didn't want to be a bought player. If you take the offer and if you don't perform, the schools may not want to live up to their end and they could make it rough on you. And you'd become disillusioned about the school and about people. I didn't want to go to these schools in the first place."

Owens had only high praise for Oklahoma.

He said he went to Oklahoma "looking at my long-range goals and I knew if I did well at OU, I could go on to pro football. In all honesty, all I ever received from

Owens, who said he never considered taking the offers, did not identify the schools.

The $5,000 offer had a unique offer on delivery, he said.

"The school told me if I would sign, they'd have an airplane drop it at the Miami airport in a package and I could drive out and pick it up there," he said.

And cash wasn't the only type offer he says he had.

"I was offered cars, wardrobes, free fraternity dues, you name it. Really, a kid in my situation, coming from a large family, it was hard to turn down."

The recruiting violation at Oklahoma caught him by complete surprise.

"Honestly, I've always thought it was the cleanest program I've heard of. It's just unfortunate. I can't condone it, but sometimes it's very unfortunate."

Derby Preps Highlight Racing Action

Secretariat and Sham, their travel plans set, and Linda's Chief, his status still in the "show me" stage, will be in action Saturday in the final two Kentucky Derby preps outside of Kentucky.

Secretariat and Sham, the early 1-2 Derby favorites, were among a surprisingly large field entered Friday for the 1 1/4-mile $100,000-added Wood Memorial at Aqueduct, and the two colts were set to leave for Kentucky early next week, barring the unforeseen.

Linda's Chief, second to Sham in the Santa Anita Derby, was one of nine 3-year-olds entered for the $100,000-added California Derby at Golden Gate Fields. His next start also will be the Kentucky Derby May 5—if he runs big Saturday, according to owner Neil Hellman.

Secretariat drew an unfavorable No. 8 post for the 1 1/4-mile Wood, in which there will be only a short run to the first turn. The Meadow Stable star's position could be improved by a few scratches, which are likely.

Secretariat also drew a running mate, Edwin Whittaker's Angle Light, also trained by Lucien Laurin, while Sham was entered as part of a three-horse Sigmund Sommer-owned entry with Knightly Dawn and Beautiful Music. Sham, the Santa Anita Derby winner, drew the No. 3 post for the race in which each starter will carry 126 pounds.

Linda's Chief will carry top weight of 121 pounds for the California Derby, also 1 1/4 miles, and spot two pounds to Vietnam and seven to each of the others including Out of the East, the only other Kentucky Derby nominee in the field.

Fillies and mares also will be busy Saturday in the $50,000-added Long Beach Handicap over 1 1/4 miles on the grass at Hollywood Park, the $30,000-added, 1 1/16-mile Gallotette Handicap on the Pimlico turf and the $25,000-added, one-mile Miss Chicago Stakes for 3-year-old fillies at Arlington Park.

Fred W. Hooper's Susan's Girl, the 1972 3-year-old filly champion, will carry 130 pounds and spot eight pounds from 10 to 20 pounds as she tries to make the Long Beach her fourth straight victory. She will be ridden by Laffit Pincay Jr., who for the day will be replaced on Sham by Jorge Velasquez.

Ancient Line, 114, and Blessing Angelica, 120, headed a dozen entered for the Gallotette and Big Dare, 121, will spot eight rivals from six to nine pounds for the Miss Chicago.

Elsewhere, a field of 16 including Knight Counter and Hustlin Greek, 120 each, was set for the $25,000-added, 1 1/16-mile Ben Ali Handicap at Keeneland; Favorecidian, 116, and Onion, 114, were among 10 headed for the $25,000-added, 1 1/16-mile Trenton Handicap at Garden State Park, and Lord Vancouver, 124, topped a 10-horse field for the $20,000-added, two-mile Green Valley Handicap on the grass at Gulfstream Park.

Sooners Edge Cowboys, 1-0

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Oklahoma State pitcher Harold Tompkins walked in the winning run in the bottom of the 11th inning as Oklahoma stopped the league-leading Cowboys, 1-0, in the first game of a crucial Big Eight baseball series here Friday afternoon.

The victory stopped Oklahoma State's winning streak at 15 games pulls the Sooners within a half game of the Cowboys in the conference race. Oklahoma is 8-2 and Oklahoma State is 8-1. The two teams meet Saturday in a doubleheader.

Third baseman Mike Umfleet led off the 11th inning with a walk and Kenny King reached on an error by Cowboy shortstop Mike Cross. They were advanced by Lanny Phillips sacrifice bunt and then Glenn Banister walked, loading the bases.

Umfleet scored the game-winning run when Tompkins walked Keith Drumwright on a 3-1 count.

Sooner hurler Jackson Todd set an all-time Oklahoma career strikeout record, fanning seven Cowboys. Todd, pitched a shut-out for the full 11 innings, allowing only six hits. He now has 204 strikeouts in three years.

The Cowboys threw three pitchers at the Sooners and the strategy worked until the 11th inning. Starter Greg Ferguson pitched nine innings of shutout ball, allowing eight hits before being relieved in the 10th by loser Mark Stanley, who gave way to Tompkins after Umfleet and King reached base.

It was a fierce pitching duel between Todd and Ferguson, both righthanders, with both teams being able to get players to second in only two innings each before the 11th.

The victory leaves Oklahoma, defending conference champions, at 28-7 on the season. It was only the second loss of the year for Oklahoma State against 21 wins.

LIME ROCK, Conn. (UPI) — Bobby Allison of Hueytown, Ala., Friday filed his entry for the May 5 Sports Car Club of America Schaefer Trans-Am 310-mile road race at Lime Rock Park.

Allison, the 1972 driver of the year, will pilot Bob Hagstad's Porsche 911 Carrera on the 1.53-mile layout. Peter Gregg of Jacksonville, Fla., a three-time winner this year, and Sam Posey of Sharon, Conn., are other Porsche drivers in the event.

The 35-year-old Allison is a veteran oval track driver who gained road racer recognition last year after guiding a small Datsun sedan to third place in the Laguna Seca Two-Five Challenge race and handled the UOP Shadow Cam-Am car at Riverside International Raceway.

Other early entries for next month's race here include Bob Sharp of Wilton, Conn., Datsun 240Z, and the team of J. Marshall Robbins of Birmingham, Mich., and Jerry Thompson of Clawson, Mich., in a Corvette Stingray

Hundley Eyes Ak

Omaha — Dr. John M. Hundley of Little Rock, Ark., has never seen Ak-Sar-Ben.

He even admits not knowing for sure how to get to Omaha.

However, before Ak-Sar-Ben's 55-day meeting (May 1-July 14) ends, he will have plenty of time to get acquainted with Omaha.

Bob Frieze, the Council Bluffs, Iowa, who serves as agent for jockey Al Herrera, is responsible for luring Dr. Hundley to Ak-Sar-Ben.

"He was looking for a good place to go from Hot Springs," Frieze says, "so I told him he couldn't find a better place than here."

The Hundleys will have six horses here under the supervision of trainer Edsel Williams.

Washington (AP) — Milt Schmidt, credited with making the Boston Bruins a National Hockey League power, was named general manager of the new Washington NHL entry today.

Schmidt, 55, had been with the Bruins since 1935 when he joined the club as an 18-year-old center. He became a member of the famed "Kraut Line" along with Woody Dumart and Bobby Bauer. They led the Bruins to Stanley Cup victories in 1939 and 1941.

North Platte Golfer Keeps World Record

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Most golfers find it tough enough trying to beat par Ruck Holcomb tried to beat the clock at the same time and he failed on both counts.

After missing the world record for the fastest round of golf by more than nine minutes Friday, the winded Holcomb wasn't despondent.

"I didn't break the world record. But I bet it's the New England record," he said.

Racing from shot to shot with only brief glances at the ball as he stroked it, the 20-year-old who boasts a four handicap when he takes his time, carded an 89 for the 6,400-yard long Triggs Golf Course. And it took him 39 minutes and 17 seconds.

The current speed record for an 18-hole course of more than 6,000 yards is 30 minutes and 10 seconds, set last year by Dick Kimbrough of North Platte, Neb.

Kansas State Sweeps ISU

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Kansas State kept alive its mathematical chance for the Big Eight baseball title Friday by winning both ends of a doubleheader from Iowa State 4-2 and 3-2.

Andy Replogle went the distance in the first game for K-State, limiting Cyclone batters to four hits. He added his own cause with a two-run homer in the bottom of the fifth.

In the second game, Kansas State put the game on ice in the fourth, scoring two runs on two base hits and a throwing error after Iowa State had tied it in the top of the fourth on a homer by Greg Biagne.

The two victories gave K-State a 5-5 league record. Iowa State is 0-6 in the conference.

Office Proposed To Give Freshman Year Attention

By MILAN WALL
Star Staff Writer

The academic planning committee at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln Friday accepted a report calling for major attention to the freshman year and asked the UNL administration to create an office to implement it.

The report, prepared by a subcommittee of the academic planners, urges the university to take a new look at a variety of academic and social problems freshmen encounter.

The report urged establishment of a special freshman council with a budget of as much as $1 million by 1973-74.

Discussion at Friday's academic planning committee indicated it believes a new council may be unnecessary and that much money may not be available, but committee members said they endorse the concepts recommended in the report.

The report was drafted after a four-month study by a specially appointed commission of faculty members, students and administrators.

The commission said that although it found no crisis situations in any major area of the freshman experience, it did discover a number of problems and inadequacies that hindered the success of a college student's freshman year.

The commission recommended establishment of on-campus learning communities to provide out-of-class contact with professors; first semester orientation courses; more attention to quality of instruction for first-year students; a specific reward system for teachers of freshmen to encourage smaller classes taught by more senior faculty members; improved freshmen advising, and better dormitory and on-campus social conditions.

The academic planning committee said a person should be hired as soon as possible to "work toward implementation" of those recommendations.

That person, probably a faculty member working parttime at the task, would be assigned to the office of the UNL vice chancellor for academic affairs.

Vice Chancellor Virginia Trotter said after the committee accepted the report that the search for the person would begin soon, probably within two weeks.

A 10-member adult advisory committee helped the youths plan the project, but most of the leg work was done by the teens themselves.

"Each boy and girl went door to door asking for any new or used article to be donated for the sale and covered much of the rural area by phone," explains Bill Slocum, a member of the adult advisory group. About a dozen small trucks and pickups, manned by Youth Movement members, brought the articles to an auditorium. The sale, which lasted until the wee hours of the morning, netted $800.

The Youth Movement has been meeting in the basement of the old post office on the town's main street but now has been offered the building's main floor by the owner, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 5757.

Slocum says the town really jumped on the bandwagon for the project. "The city has offered free electricity and water, one business firm has offered to almost completely furnish the kitchen, another has donated a color television set, antenna and free maintenance, many others have given cash and hundreds donated items for the auction."

He notes, too, that "we could probably solicit enough funds for the complete remodeling of the youth center, but that isn't what the kids wanted—they wanted something of their own, financed by their own projects."

The center, which will be chartered at all times, will be open to any junior high or high school student from Franklin, Riverton, Napoleon, Bloomington, Macon, Spring Valley and the rural areas, and guests of students.

The Youth Movement will be the governing body for the center, with the advisory council entering into the picture only when needed or asked. Stuart Wilsman is president of the Youth Movement, the third member of his family in the organization's four-year history to hold that honor.

Teens Work For Center At Franklin

FRANKLIN, Neb. (AP)—As most parents know, when a teenager wants something bad enough, he will likely get it.

This basic truth was recently verified when the 43-member Franklin Youth Movement conducted a benefit auction to get money to relocate and remodel a youth center.

A 10-member adult advisory committee helped the youths plan the project, but most of the leg work was done by the teens themselves.

"Each boy and girl went door to door asking for any new or used article to be donated for the sale and covered much of the rural area by phone," explains Bill Slocum, a member of the adult advisory group. 3 Areas Would Get $3.9 Million Under Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nebraska metropolitan areas would receive $3,965,000 under the $2.3 billion special revenue sharing proposal President Nixon has sent to Congress.

Basically, the money would replace numerous programs that have been or will be cut from the federal budget.

The proposal is called the Better Communities Act.

The funds will be disbursed according to four general guidelines:

—A four-factor formula based on poverty—which is double

Boy, 13, Dies In Gun Battle In No. Ireland

BELFAST (AP) — Guerrillas and British troops battled in Belfast and a 13-year-old boy was killed, apparently by cross-fire.

"This is a large-scale shootout," an army spokesman said.

Sources said the boy was with his brother in a car in the Roman Catholic Ardoyne area when shooting erupted around the pair.

He was the 776th known fatality in the sectarian war that has tormented Northern Ireland since the summer of 1969

Earlier in the day, three soldiers and a woman seven months pregnant were wounded when gunmen opened up with automatic weapons on an army patrol in a crowded Belfast street weighted, overcrowding, housing and total population.

—No community will receive less money under the act in the years immediately following enactment than it had been receiving under the categorical programs replaced.

—Funds will be disbursed automatically, without the need for costly and time-consuming application and review procedures.

—Only general purpose governments—the ones closest to the electorate will receive funds.

The breakdown in Nebraska is $346,000 to the state in discretionary funds, half of which must go to the Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas (SMSAs) for use by the local general purpose governments only within the metropolitan area. The other half or $173,000 will be made available to fund community development activities by any unit of local general purpose government within the state.

There are three SMSAs in Nebraska. They are the Omaha metropolitan area including parts of Iowa which will receive $122,000 in these discretionary funds, Lincoln, which will receive $26,000, and Sioux City which includes parts of Iowa which gets $25,000.

The cities and counties in Nebraska to receive the special revenue sharing funds are, Lincoln, which will receive $509,000; North Platte, which will receive $693,000, and Omaha which will receive $1,437,000.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more subtract 4. If the number is less than 6 add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
